QUESTIONING OF RELATIVES IS CONTINUED

King Holds to Theory Mrs. Sheatsley Dead Before Body Put in Furnace

HOME LIFE HAPPY

Aged Mother Declares She Never Knew a More Happy Family Than Daughter's

Canton, O., Nov. 21.—Hoping further questioning of relatives of Mrs. Addie Sheatsley, wife of C. V. Sheatsley, pastor of the Christ Church, Bexley, a suburb of Columbus, who found the charred body of his wife in a furnace at his home Sunday night, bringing some clue which would solve the mysterious cremation, Prosecutor John R. King of Franklin county (Columbus) today continued examination of Mr. Sheatsley and his four children.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sheatsley were held at Paris, near here, yesterday.

Awaiting Report

Prosecutor King also is awaiting a report of Columbus analytical chemists who made an examination of the lungs and sophagus of Mrs. Sheatsley which Mr. King said would be forwarded to him today. The prosecutor hopes that the analysis will disclose whether Mrs. Sheatsley breathed in the furnace. He said if the examination disclosed that she did not breathe, it would lend credence to his theory that she was a murder victim.

Mr. King declared last night he "is not satisfied" she entered the furnace voluntarily.

"I am of the opinion," he said, "that eventual disclosures will prove facts necessary to show that end her life. I do not say, you understand, that another killed her. That is possible, of course, but I am inclined more and more to the belief that the body was placed in the furnace after life had passed from the body."

Mother Says Home Life Happy

Questioned by Mr. King, Mrs. Lydia Bonessler, 80-year-old mother of the victim, who lived with the Sheatsley family for a number of years declared "a more agreeable family I have never seen. Addie was good and kind to me and so was her husband."

Late yesterday, in a note sent Prosecutor King, Mr. Sheatsley reiterated his belief that his wife had been a suicide victim. Milton, the oldest son, in a note to Mr. King, declared that when he entered the furnace room and first saw the body of his mother, a small door above the coal door was open. In previous statements to the prosecutor he had declared this door was closed. Mr. Sheatsley, in a postscript to Milton's note, said that "as you know, I thought the little girl told me the door was open. Milton now says it is in the one who saw it and so willing to testify."

Prosecutor King will go further into this phase of the case, he said.

Found Guilty of Accepting Bribe in Post

Minneapolis, Nov. 21.—Major Alfred Beach, a former official in the United States Veterans bureau was found guilty of accepting a bribe by a jury which reported to Judge John F. McGee in United States district court here last night.

Immediately after the jury returned its verdict Judge McGee adjourned court until today when it is probable that an appeal will be asked by attorneys for Beach, or the sentence will be passed.

Beach is now at liberty on bail. The maximum penalty is three years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth.

Major Beach was dismissed from the veterans bureau in October of last year. At that time Percy J. Cuff, a disabled veteran and Captain O. H. Newkirk, a friend of both Beach and Cuff, made affidavits that Beach had accepted $300 to speed up the claims award in the Cuff case.

Will Restrict Curbstone Pumps

Minot, N. D., Nov. 21.—Decision to restrict in the future the erection of gasoline pumps and water and air service stations on the sidewalk curbs in certain business sections of the city was reached yesterday afternoon by the city commission, the action bringing to a head numerous previous informal discussions favoring such action.

In connection with the move, which was taken in the form of a resolution designating the districts where future erection of pumps will not be allowed, the commission rejected the application of the Rex Nash Motor company for the erection of a gasoline pump on the sidewalk curb on First avenue southeast.

FEDERAL EXPERT SENT TO MAKE TRIP OVER BADLANDS AND REPORT ON ITS DESIRABILITY AS A NATIONAL PARK

Major E. A. Goldman of the United States Biological Survey is to meet E. E. Fiedlen of Ryder, of the Roosevelt Memorial National Park Association of North Dakota, in Medora today, and the two expect to make a trip of four or five days through the proposed national park in the Badlands to report on its desirability to various government services in Washington.

While the creation of a National Park in the Badlands has been urged for several years, Major Goldman will be the first federal official that has ever visited the region to make a report. He was requested by Dr. E. W. Nelson, chief of the Bureau of Biological Survey, to make the survey from the standpoint of the advantages of the Badlands in preserving game, by Stephen Mather, director of National Parks Service, to make the survey from the standpoint of its availability as a park, and Major Goldman also will report to F. A. Sherman, acting federal forester, on its desirability as a forest preserve.

Major Goldman, who has been surveying wild game conditions in Yellowstone Park, is said to be the most noted authority of the federal government on this game.

Acting Forester Sherman, in a letter to Mr. Fiedlen, said that from previous reports he doubted if the region could be recommended as a forest preserve, which had been proposed by Senator E. F. Ladd and others.

A difficulty with regard to the name selection in North Dakota, should a National Park eventually be created, also has developed. The federal parks service has informed Mr. Fiedlen that a bill was passed by Congress a few years ago to give the name "Roosevelt" to a proposed enlargement of Sequoia Park in California, and it is probable that an adjustment in the name would have to be made.

CAUTION URGED FOR LABOR IN ITS POLITICS

Report of Executive Committee Advises Freedom From Domination

BALLOT REFORMS ASKED

Freeing of Independent Movements From Limitations Is Proposed

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 21.—A special report on political policy to the American Federation of Labor's Convention here today by the executive committee asserted that the organization must be kept free from political domination and that the non-partisan political campaign committee created during the recent national campaign must be maintained permanently.

Ballot reforms, increased interest in the primaries of all parties and freeing independent political movements of the narrowly circumscribed limitations as revealed by the recent national campaign also should be sought, the report declared.

Results achieved in the recent congressional elections were acclaimed as "a signal success" in furthering the interests of the wage earners and people of the country generally. The report was signed by Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, eight Vice-Presidents, Secretary and Treasurer.

ASKS SUPPORT FOR PROJECT

Governor Nestos Declares Tidewater Project Important

Continued support of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater project by North Dakota is assured, Governor R. A. Nestos told A. C. Carlson, secretary of the Michigan Tidewater Commission, during a visit to Bismarck yesterday afternoon. Mr. Carlson came into North Dakota to acquaint people with the aims of the association, on invitation of Governor Nestos. The Governor, declaring that he believed the building of the project, which would permit ocean-going boats to steam direct from Duluth to European ports, would be a great factor in the development of North Dakota, and in a conference with local business men urged support of the association's program.

Mr. Carlson explained the project to a group of citizens at the Association of Commerce yesterday afternoon, and said that in other cities in the state he had visited he found united support for the project.

Hears Voices of Dolls; Flees

Los Angeles, Nov. 21.—Moses Washington, negro truck driver, last night hastily deserted his home and fled to the police when he heard muffled voices coming from one of the long wooden boxes in his load. Officers hurried to the scene and opened the box which Washington insisted contained either a dying or already dead victim of foul play.

They found it snugly packed with a consignment of "Mamma Dolls." Each time the truck bounced over a rut in the road, the dolls, their mechanical lungs compressed by the jolt, died in unison "Mamma."

Hundreds of radio sets have been sold to American Indians.

COMMUNISTS CLAIM MEMBER OF N. D. HOUSE

Workers Party Organ Says That Williams County Man Is Party Representative

'TO SHOW UP SYSTEM'

Coming to Legislature to Espouse Cause of Communism, Is Assertion

While legislators elected in North Dakota on November 4 have thus far been generally classed as "Independents" or "Nonpartisans," although they were elected on Republican, Democratic or Independent tickets, there will be one avowed Communist in the legislature, it is asserted by "The Daily Worker," published in Chicago, Illinois.

The newspaper, which espouses the cause of the "Workers Party" and opposed Senator LaFollette in the election, gives much prominence to the progress it claims the Communists have made in North Dakota. The article, a "special" from Williston, North Dakota, follows:

"Comrade C. A. Miller, secretary of the Workers Party branch here was elected to the state legislature, defeating a starker candidate run up against him by the Nonpartisan League politicians of Williams county."

"Comrade Andrew Omholt, who was candidate for sheriff of Williams county, received a good vote but not enough to elect him."

"Considering the fact that both candidates openly advertised themselves as Communists, the results are remarkable. A specially bitter fight was put up against Comrade Omholt, the voters being warned by the yellow press that the real issue of the campaign was law enforcement versus Communism."

"Comrade Miller is the first member of the party in North Dakota to be elected to the state legislature. He will go to Bismarck for the purpose of showing that the political machinery of the capitalist system cannot do anything for the farmers and the workers, that it is necessary for them to build up a system of their own and that they must rally around the Workers Party, the only organization in the United States that can solve their problems."

"A strong Workers Party branch is now being organized at Williston, the comrades here desiring to use it as a base for party activities in northwestern North Dakota. At Bonhearn in Williams county a branch of ten members has already been organized and these new recruits to the party are ready and willing to educate themselves for Communist work in their respective neighborhoods."

"Comrade Andrew Omholt will look after the party activities in this territory."

'PERFECT MAN' IS PREDICTED

To be Accomplished Through Gland Regulation, Scientist Says

Philadelphia, Nov. 21.—(By the A. P.)—The production of the perfect man by regulation of glands is predicted by Dr. Rodney Fiske of New York.

Speaking yesterday at the convention of the Eastern Homeopathic Medical Association, he says that recent discoveries concerning the functions of glands of the human body had paved the way for production of the perfect man.

Dr. William Diefenbach, an X-Ray specialist also of New York, said that by proper control of the function of glands a "fountain of youth" would be discovered as failure of the glands to function was the cause of old age.

"By properly regulating man's glands," said Dr. Fiske, "we will not only be able to control his mental characteristics but also his physical appearance. It will be within our power to say whether he shall be tall or short; fat or thin; whether his voice shall be tenor or bass."

"By increasing the action of sluggish glands and slowing down the over-active glands, remarkable results have been accomplished and we are on the verge of even greater achievements which will make possible the production of the perfect man."

To Represent North Dakota In Rate Case

E. M. Hendricks, traffic expert of the state railroad commission, will represent the state commission at a hearing to be held December 3 in St. Louis, at which the petition of oil refiners of Oklahoma and other southern producers for lower freight rates to the Northwest will be considered by an examiner for the Interstate Commerce Commission. The North Dakota man will support the plea for lower rates with exhibits designed to show present levels are too high.

Goes Hunting, Bags Robbers

Linton, N. D., Nov. 21.—Winch Batten, formerly of Hazelton, goes out and brings in bank robbers instead of ducks and geese. The other morning his bank was robbed by four men. He went out later in the day on a business trip out of town, and took his gun along thinking that he might see some game.

He, seeing some after getting out of town several miles, started to sneak down a coulee after them. He saw four men, and got the drop on 3 of them, one sneaking off. Winch took them to Watonwan and turned them over to the officials, and got all the loot that was taken by the robbers back.

Lignite Coal Shipments Are On Increase

Lignite coal shipments from North Dakota mines are considerably heavier than at this period of the year last year, according to E. M. Hendricks, traffic expert for the state railroad commission. Reports indicate that most mines are busy.

STOCK MARKET AGAIN BOOMS IN NEW YORK

Continues at the Same Feverish Pace Maintained Throughout the Week

NEW PRICES REACHED

Before Profit-Taking Begins To Cut Into the Market, Prices Hit High Level

New York, Nov. 21.—Trading in the stock market continued at the same feverish pace which has been maintained since the election but the advance in price was checked by a heavy wave of profit-taking which spread over the entire list early in the afternoon.

Before the outbreak of realizing sales, more than two-score issues had scaled new peak prices for the year on a turn-over of 1,105,700 shares, in the first two hours.

Railroad shares which had been swept to new high levels on the early rush of buying crumbled one to three points as profit-taking invaded the list and then rallied again as a big bullish demonstration in Rock Island lifted that stock to a new high at 46. Other new high marks were set by Union Pacific, Atchafalaya, Northwestern, New Haven and Northern Pacific.

Persistent selling of industrial issues was reflected in recession of one to five points. Despite the pressure against industrial stocks, U. S. Steel reached a new high level of $117 1/4.

COOLIDGE TO GIVE POSITION

President Starts Work on Message to Congress

Washington, Nov. 21.—President Coolidge has begun writing his message to congress in which he will set forth recommendations for legislative action at the short session which convenes Dec. 1.

The message is expected to include a definition of Mr. Coolidge's position on national problems, already stated to some extent in speeches and in his message to the last session of congress.

In view of the administration's present intention not to ask for further tax reduction, pending a study of the new tax bill just now going into effect, and to await the report of his special commission on agricultural questions, it is not believed the president will make any recommendations for outstanding general legislation, devoting his remarks along this line to numerous pending proposals before congress, among which are the departmental reorganization bill, the naval reconstruction measure, reclamation proposals and some railroad legislation.

Mr. Coolidge has indicated he will send the message to congress to be received by the House of Representatives in the near future, changed first by President Wilson and followed since his administration.

Four Stolen Autos Retaken Through Sheriff

Janestown, N. D., Nov. 21.—Four stolen cars were recently recovered through the efforts of the State Game and Fish Commission. All of these were Ford's, 2 coupes, 1 touring car and 1 four door sedan. Three belonged in Minneapolis and one in Valley City, the one from Valley City was the car stolen from Mr. May Marsh some months ago. It was found on a farm near Millerton and the sheriff of Barnes county came here and got it recently, returning it to its owner.

Sheriff Ross and deputies had suspected these cars of being stolen ones for some time but had been unable to trace ownership. Working through the authorities in Minneapolis, a young man in jail there and who had been jailed here some time ago and was suspected of knowing something about the cars was induced to give information which resulted in two detectives, a man from the Automobile Protective Association, which works in conjunction with the insurance companies in these matters, and a federal department of justice man, coming here. This party with Deputy Sheriff Don Ross soon traced the ownership of the cars, the correct motor numbers being brought out by the use of an acetone welding outfit.

500 WHEAT VARIETIES

More than 500 varieties of winter wheat were planted last season on the Kansas State Agricultural College farm at Manhattan. The object was to find a variety that resists the foot rot disease of wheat which has appeared in certain parts of Kansas.

MRS. HARDING'S DEATH MOURNED IN CAPITAL; WAS KNOWN FOR CHARITIES

Hiccough Victim Reported Here

Bismarck today added a victim to the list of hiccoughs, reported at various places in the country.

Clare Register, deputy register of deeds, began hiccoughing yesterday. It continued last night, and at intervals today. He was at his desk, and the spell came infrequently today. Physicians report no epidemic in Bismarck, however.

EMPLOYEES TO BE RETAINED

No Changes, Kitchen Announces After Dinner

All employees of the state Department of Agriculture will be retained after January 1, Commission of Agriculture and Labor Joseph A. Kitchen, who was retained, announced after a dinner of the department employees last night at the Grand Pacific Hotel. About 20 were present, including wives of some employees, and guests.

Mr. Kitchen announced that W. F. Reynolds, state dairy commissioner, had decided to remain in the department, although he was offered a better salary by a commercial firm in the meat work. Mr. Kitchen expressed pleasure over the decision of Mr. Reynolds, saying that he is doing much to further the dairy industry in the state at present.

By enforcing grading of cream throughout the state and insuring the quality, and by preventing the offering of premiums, such as of venture to cream sellers, Mr. Reynolds has kept the price of cream to the farmer about four cents above the prevailing price in many other states in which premiums are given and grading is not enforced, Mr. Kitchen said.

The only changes in the department during the past two years, he said, came through the death of R. G. Catron, former deputy, and the resignation of W. R. Page to take a position as agricultural extension agent for the Great Northern Railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Kitchen presided at the dinner.

400 Cars of Grain Shipped

New England, N. D., Nov. 21.—More than 400 carsload of grain have been shipped from New England this fall and it is estimated that about half the crop has been moved.

Minneapolis rail officials, while here, stated that this year, through their system of hauling more cars and heavier loads, the railroad has effected a great saving. Their figures for September show an average trainload of 733 net tons, or 13 percent more than the average for September, 1923.

LONG ILLNESS AFTER BRAVE FIGHT FATAL

Died Early This Morning at White Oaks Farm of Dr. Carl W. Sawyer

FUNERAL TO BE MONDAY

Breakdown of Former First Lady of Land Began in White House

Marion, Ohio, Nov. 21.—(By the A. P.)—Florence King Harding, widow of Warren G. Harding, 59th chief executive of the United States, died here today.

The end came at 8:55 a. m., at the White Oaks Sanatorium of Dr. Carl Sawyer, where she has been fighting for life for the past few weeks.

The death certificate made out by Dr. Sawyer gave the cause of death as chronic nephritis, with myocarditis and hydrocephalus as contributing causes. Clifford B. King, Mrs. Harding's brother, George B. Christian Jr., who had been secretary to Mrs. Harding, Mrs. Mary Sawyer, widow of Brigadier General Charles E. Sawyer and Dr. Carl Sawyer, were present when the end came.

Arrangements for the funeral were immediately taken over by her father and Mr. Christian.

Funeral Monday

The funeral services will be held at Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Rev. Jesse Swank, pastor of the church, who conducted the funeral services for President Harding, will be in charge. He will be assisted by the Rev. George M. Landis, pastor of Trinity Baptist church, of which Mr. Harding was a member. Mrs. Harding had been a member of Epworth Methodist church since girlhood.

While no definite announcement has been made it has been expected that Mrs. Harding's body will be placed temporarily in the receiving vault in the Marion cemetery along side that of her husband.

The body was removed from White Oaks sanatorium early today to the home of Mrs. Frank Longshore, at Mrs. Harding's death was due directly to a kidney ailment, from which she has suffered for years and which nearly resulted fatally while she was mistress of the White House. She died peacefully, Dr. Sawyer said.

The life story of Florence King Harding, like an epic of sturdy American womanhood, was a chronicle of continual struggle against great odds, and of eventual triumph in adversity.

From the day she first faced the world as a pioneer home in the middle west, until, broken in health, she undertook the heavy responsibilities of the White House, she encountered hardships before which a less courageous spirit would have weakened into dish mediocrity.

Through these trials she not only kept her courage and her vigorous individuality, but she retained as well a depth of human understanding and a confidence in herself and those about her that endeared her to many thousands. After she became

TWO DIE IN GANG FIGHTS

Outbreak in Chicago Followed by Fatal Shootings

Chicago, Nov. 21.—The shooting to death of one man and the wounding of another were attributed by the police to the latest outbreak in Chicago's gang war.

The body of Tony Mancuso was found riddled with bullets in a south-side alley. He wore a valuable ring, carried a gold watch and his wallet (containing $37.50) had not been disturbed. A few blocks away a man, who is believed to be Michael Mikovitch, was found unconscious with several bullet wounds. He refused to discuss the shooting, saying "my friends will take care of me."

Meanwhile, Frank Lale and Sam Tollacchio, both of New York who had been held in connection with the murder of Dion O'Banion, were released when they proved an alibi.

Anderson Is Given Parole

Oswining, N. Y., Nov. 21.—William H. Anderson, former state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league will spend Christmas day outside the walls of Sing Sing prison.

The state board of parole ordered that, among other prisoners at Sing Sing, Anderson who was convicted of forgery in altering the books of his organization and who began a 7 year sentence March 24, 1924, be released on Dec. 24, in accordance with "the good behavior" ruling.

At the October meeting of the board five prisoners were denied parole under a new rule which provided that one year prisoners must serve their full term. This rule was reversed today.

NEW PRICES REACHED

Before Profit-Taking Begins To Cut Into the Market, Prices Hit High Level

New York, Nov. 21.—Trading in the stock market continued at the same feverish pace which has been maintained since the election but the advance in price was checked by a heavy wave of profit-taking which spread over the entire list early in the afternoon.

Before the outburst of realizing sales, more than two-score issues had reached new peak prices for the year on a turn-over of 1,105,700 shares, in the first two hours.

Railroad shares which had been swept to new high levels on the early rush of buying crumbled one to three points as profit-taking invaded the list and then rallied again as a big bullish demonstration in Rock Island lifted that stock to a new high at 46. Other new high marks were set by Union Pacific, Atchafalaya, Northwestern, New Haven and Northern Pacific.

Persistent selling of industrial issues was reflected in recession of one to five points. Despite the pressure against influential stocks, U. S. Steel reached a new high level of $117 1/4.

COOLIDGE TO GIVE POSITION

President Starts Work on Message to Congress

Washington, Nov. 21.—President Coolidge has begun writing his message to congress in which he will set forth recommendations for legislative action at the short session which convenes Dec. 1.

The message is expected to include a definition of Mr. Coolidge's position on national problems, already stated to some extent in speeches and in his message to the last session of congress.

In view of the administration's present intention not to ask for further tax reduction, pending a study of the new tax bill just now going into effect, and to await the report of his special commission on agricultural questions, it is not believed the president will make any recommendations for outstanding general legislation, devoting his remarks along this line to numerous pending proposals before congress, among which are the departmental reorganization bill, the naval reconstruction measure, reclamation proposals and some railroad legislation.

Mr. Coolidge has indicated he will send the message to congress to be read, reestablishing a custom of many years, changed first by President Wilson and followed since his administration.

Four Stolen Autos Retaken Through Sheriff

Janestown, N. D., Nov. 21.—Four stolen cars were recently recovered through the efforts of the State's attorney sheriff's office. All of these were Fords, 2 coupes, 1 touring car and 1 four door sedan. Three belonged in Minneapolis and one in Valley City, the one from Valley City was recovered from Mrs. May Marsh some months ago. It was found on a farm near Millerton and the sheriff of Barnes county came here and got it recently, returning it to its owner.

Sheriff Ross and deputies had suspected these cars of being stolen ones for some time but had been unable to trace ownership. Working through the authorities in Minneapolis, a young man in jail there and who had been jailed here some time ago and was suspected of knowing something about the cars was induced to give information which resulted in two detectives, a man from the Automobile Protective Association, which works in conjunction with the insurance companies in these matters, and a federal department of justice man, coming here. This party with Deputy Sheriff Don Ross soon traced the ownership of the cars, the correct motor numbers being brought out by the use of an acetylene welding outfit.

Hiccough Victim Reported Here

Bismarck today added a victim to the list of hiccoughs, reported at various places in the country.

Clare Register, deputy registrar of deeds, began hiccoughing yesterday. It continued last night, and at intervals today. He was at his desk, and the spell came infrequently today. Physicians report no epidemic in Bismarck, however.

EMPLOYEES TO BE RETAINED

No Changes, Kitchen Announces After Dinner

All employees of the state Department of Agriculture will be retained after January 1, Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor Joseph A. Kitchen, who was re-elected, announced after a dinner of the department employees last night at the Grand Pacific Hotel. About 20 were present, including wives of some employees, and guests.

Mr. Kitchen announced that W. F. Reynolds, dairy commissioner, had decided to remain in the department, although he was offered a better salary by a commercial firm in the past week. Mr. Kitchen expressed pleasure over the decision of Mr. Reynolds, saying that he is doing much to further the dairy industry in the state at present.

By enforcing grading of cream throughout the state and raising the quality, and by preventing the offering of premiums, such as stillware, to cream sellers, Mr. Reynolds has kept the price of cream to the farmers about four cents above the prevailing price in many other states in which premiums are given and grading is not enforced, Mr. Kitchen said.

The only changes in the department during the past two years, he said, came through the death of R. G. Catron, former deputy, and the resignation of W. R. Page to take a position as agricultural extension agent for the Great Northern Railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Kitchen presided at the dinner.

LONG ILLNESS AFTER BRAVE FIGHT FATAL

Died Early This Morning at White Oaks Farm of Dr. Carl W. Sawyer

FUNERAL TO BE MONDAY

Breakdown of Former First Lady of Land Began in White House

Marion, Ohio, Nov. 21.—(By the A. P.)—Florence Kling Harding, widow of Warren G. Harding, 29th chief executive of the United States, died here today.

The end came at 8:55 a. m., at the White Oaks Sanitarium of Dr. Carl Sawyer, where she has been fighting for life for the past few weeks.

The death certificate made out by Dr. Sawyer gave the cause of death as chronic nephritis, with myocarditis and hydrothorax as contributory causes. Clifford B. Kling, Mrs. Harding's brother, George B. Christian Jr., who had been secretary to Mrs. Harding; Mrs. Mary Sawyer, widow of Brigadier General Charles E. Sawyer and Dr. Carl Sawyer, were present when the end came.

Arrangements for the funeral were immediately taken over by her father and Mr. Christian.

Funeral Monday

The funeral services will be held at Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Rev. Jesse Swank, pastor of the church, who conducted the funeral services for President Harding, will be in charge. He will be assisted by the Rev. George M. Landis, pastor of Trinity Baptist church of which Mr. Harding was a member. Mrs. Harding had been a member of Epworth Methodist church since girlhood.

While no definite announcement has been made it has been expected that Mrs. Harding's body will be placed temporarily in the receiving vault in the Marion cemetery along with that of her husband.

The body was removed from White Oaks sanitarium early today to the home of Mrs. Frank Longshore, a niece. Mrs. Harding's death was due directly to a kidney ailment, from which she has suffered for years and which nearly resulted fatally while she was mistress of the White House. She died peacefully, Dr. Sawyer said.

The life story of Florence Kling Harding, like an epic of sturdy American womanhood, was a chronicle of continual struggle against great odds, and of continual accomplishments. From the day she first faced the world in a frontier home in the middle west, until, broken in health, she undertook the heavy responsibilities of the White House, she encountered hardships before which a less courageous spirit would have weakened into drab mediocrity.

Despite these trials she not only kept her courage and her vigorous individuality, but she retained as well a depth of human understanding and a confidence in herself and those about her that endeared her to many thousands. After she became

TWO DIE IN GANG FIGHTS

Outbreak in Chicago Followed by Fatal Shootings

Chicago, Nov. 21.—The shooting to death of one man and the wounding of another were attributed by the police to the latest outbreak in Chicago's gang war.

The body of Tony Mancuso was found riddled with bullets in a south-side alley. He wore a valuable ring, carried a gold watch and his wallet containing $37.50 had not been disturbed. A few blocks away a man, who is believed to be Michael Mikovitch was found unconscious with several bullet wounds. He refused to discuss the shooting, saying "my friends will take care of me."

Meanwhile, Frank Uale and Sam Tollaccia, both of New York who had been held in connection with the murder of Dion O'Bannon, were released when they proved an alibi.

Anderson Is Given Parole

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 21.—William H. Anderson, former state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league will spend Christmas day outside the walls of Sing Sing prison.

The state board of parole ordered that, among other prisoners at Sing Sing, Anderson who was convicted of forgery in altering the books of his organization and who began a 1 year sentence March 24, 1924, be released on Dec. 24, in accordance with "the good behavior" ruling.

At the October meeting of the board five prisoners were denied parole under a new rule which provided that one year prisoners must serve their full term. This rule was reversed today.

INSURGENTS NOT FEARING ACTION OF G.O.P.

Republicans "Too Wise" to Attempt Expulsion of Them, Nelson Says

Washington, Nov. 21.—The possibility of some concerted action by Republicans to "read out of the party" in the newly elected congress, the insurgent group, which has been privately favored by some, became more sharply focused yesterday with an open declaration on the matter from members of both groups.

Representative Treadway, Republican, Massachusetts, declared after a visit to the White House that he favored eliminating the insurgents in important Republican committee assignments in organizing the new congress to meet, unless called in special session, a year from next month.

Asserting that he thought the Republicans would be "too wise" to attempt such action, Representative Nelson of Wisconsin, leader of the insurgents, later asserted his group "neither feared" expulsion from the Republican ranks "nor did they care about it, or welcome it."

The "progressives" he said "expect to continue their fight for progressive legislation and intend to do all in their power to bring this country back to a normal basis."

In the future, as in the past, the Wisconsin member added, "the progressives propose to support" such legislation as they believe to be in the best interests of the country."

Mr. Treadway said the insurgent group should be classed among the minority and "given committee assignments accordingly." He added "we have suffered long enough from their committee influence, and they should no longer have controlling places."

In connection with the discussion some Republican members, who privately have expressed the opinion that the insurgents should be expelled from the Republican ranks have pointed out that the several members of the group will hold important places on house committees.

SCREEN LESSONS PLANNED FOR FARMERS OF FRANCE

Paris, Nov. 21.—The cinema world has offered its services to aid in the campaign against the high cost of living being made by the French government. The president of the association of cinema directors, Leon Brezillon, has offered the use of 3,000 screens to educate the farmer and convert him to improved ways of raising food-stuffs.

Mr. Brezillon, as an example of what might be done, suggests that the poor ear of corn as raised in the eastern provinces of France, which counts hardly 50 grains might be contrasted on the screen with those from the Beauca country, which have three or four times as many. He would show also the latest forms of machinery for cultivation, and the most profitable methods of raising poultry.

LONG ILLNESS AFTER BRAVE FIGHT FATAL

First Lady of the Land, as always in the years preceding, the helplessness and the unfortunate received the first and fullest measure of her devotion. Children of every class had her attention. Wounded veterans of the World War owed her many a debt for hours gladdened by her visits to their hospitals, or by flowers sent by her personal order from the White House on convalescent hospital outlying of sympathy extended to animals, many of whom she befriended and protected.

Always Thoughtful
In her thoughtfulness for the interests of others and in her loyalty to her friends, she was outspoken in her desire that were for her recognition as one of the most vigorous-minded women who ever presided over the household of a president. On the night of election day in 1920 she announced her determination to send away the policemen stationed at the White House gates since the United States entered the war a purpose which was fulfilled in the very day. Mr. Harding took office. Before he even had looked around his new office, he had issued an order throwing the gates wide open, and handbills trooped in across the lawn and peeped in at the windows while the new First Lady of the Land was presiding at her first White House function, an informal luncheon for old friends and neighbors from Marion, Ohio.

During the whole time she was mistress of the Executive Mansion, Mrs. Harding combined with her official duties an unwavering allegiance to her convictions, and displayed in doing so a degree of tact which won her universal esteem. The social usages so long a part of official Washington life were preserved by her to the letter but without ostentation. And at the same time she found opportunity to show in many ways that she had lost none of her interest for the class of home folk from which she had come.

That she was a "folk" she told newspapermen when they asked her for a message to the people at the time of Mr. Harding's inauguration. "We are just folks, but when I enter the White House I propose to accept all of its social obligations and become the First Lady of the Land in truth as well as name."

The full significance of that promise was known to but a few of her intimate friends. For years she had not seen well and she had reached a time of life when even the plucky cheerfulness with which she covered her almost continual suffering was certain to be broken by the exertions of her position. It would have been easy to surrender to the advice of physicians and friends, and in half-retirement to sit down amid the comforts of the White House and muse triumphantly over past years of struggle. Many women would have done it; but for her that was impossible. She declared she never would be counted a "quitter." With her new station in life, she said, went certain responsibilities, and these responsibilities she was determined not to shirk.

Nor did she interpret in any narrow sense the obligations of mutual helpfulness she had assumed when, in 1891, she became the wife of a struggling newspaper editor back in Marion. Even in those days she gave vastly more to the marriage partnership than a woman usually is able to contribute, and grown men in Marion today remember how she used to count out newspapers to them when they were new boys. When the future President entered politics, she found new and unexpected ways of helping him. As the wife of a senator, she kept in touch with conditions in the state which he represented in Washington, besides maintaining her place fittingly in the social life of the capital.

Well Informed
Of those gathered round Mr. Harding when he entered the pre-convention campaign of 1920, there was none who kept better informed of what was done to further his candidacy than Mrs. Harding. She had opinions, and she was outspoken in expressing them to the men who were with management of the campaign. After the primaries in Ohio, Indiana, and Michigan, when the outlook for success was darkest, there were experienced politicians who advised the candidate to withdraw. But she was not one who believed in giving up, once a fight had been begun, and some of the men who knew most of the inside story of those trying weeks gave to her the credit of keeping Mr. Harding in the race he was eventually to win.

After the nomination Mrs. Harding became, in spite of the growing threat of physical collapse, an active figure in the front porch campaign. Not only did she appear always with her husband when he faced a crowd but she remained beside him when the line formed to shake his hand, and she gave a hand-clasp also to every one of the many thousands who filed past to acclaim his candidacy. Besides all of that, she visited his headquarters almost daily and looked political policies with his advisers, and she entertained at her table many of the distinguished visitors who came to Marion and exchanged opinions on national issues with them over the telegraph.

From the time Mr. Harding became interested in politics, she made a study of things political just as he had familiarized himself previously with the Marion STAR printing plant and when the results of the 1920 elections had been written into political history, neighbors in Marion rubbed their heads and related how the young editor's wife had proved that "some day I'll make this President."

THE SAWYER HOME

This is the home of the late Brigadier General Charles E. Sawyer, personal physician to President Harding, White Oaks Farm near Marion, O. In this house the late president's widow spent her last days.

LADY ASTOR HAS FAITH IN HER OWN SEX

Brighton, Nov. 21. (A. P.) Lady Astor's confidence in her own sex was voiced again in a speech today before the National Council of Women of the United States at its annual convention in London. She declared the younger generation of women is not only capable of doing as well as the older generation, but she is also capable of doing more. "The only way we can affect the world," Lady Astor said, "is not in what we can do for it, but in what we are. I have no doubt that our young people are going to be the greatest spiritual step forward that has happened for generations. The most selfless service comes from youth."

She asked girls to think for themselves and make up their minds. "I am sure," she continued, "that our young people are going to be the greatest spiritual step forward that has happened for generations. The most selfless service comes from youth."

BRITISH ARE AROUSSED OVER SIRDAR'S DEATH

Cabinet Meeting Held, Understood for Purpose of Discussing Outrage

London, Nov. 21. The announcement from Cairo of the death of Sir Lee Stack has caused a feeling of intense indignation in London. The British cabinet met today for a specially summoned council probably to discuss the outrage and the policy to be followed. At that time, however, the Sirdar had not succumbed to the wounds inflicted by assassins.

Although the king of Egypt and the Sudan authorities have taken a correct attitude it is expected that the British government will dispatch a strong note insisting on prompt action for the assassination and guarantee for the cessation of anti-British propaganda.

London, Nov. 21. The announcement from Cairo of the death of Sir Lee Stack has caused a feeling of intense indignation in London. The British cabinet met today for a specially summoned council probably to discuss the outrage and the policy to be followed. At that time, however, the Sirdar had not succumbed to the wounds inflicted by assassins.

Although the king of Egypt and the Sudan authorities have taken a correct attitude it is expected that the British government will dispatch a strong note insisting on prompt action for the assassination and guarantee for the cessation of anti-British propaganda.

LONG ILLNESS AFTER BRAVE FIGHT FATAL

First Lady of the Land, as always in the years preceding, the helplessness and the unfortunate received the first and fullest measure of her devotion. Children of every class had her as failing attention. Wounded veterans of the World War owed her many a debt for hours gladdened by her visits to their hospitals or by flowers sent by her personal order from the White House conservatories. Her unusual outpouring of sympathy extended to animals, many of whom she befriended and protected.

Always Thoughtful
In her thoughtfulness for the interests of others and in her loyalty to her friends, she was outpoken to a degree that won for her recognition as one of the most vigorous-minded women who ever presided over the household of a president. On the night of election day in 1920 she announced her determination to send away the policemen stationed at the White House gates since the United States entered the war—a purpose which was fulfilled on the very day Mr. Harding took office. Before he even had looked around his new offices he issued an order throwing the gates wide open, and hundreds trooped in across the lawn and peeped in at the windows while the new First Lady of the Land was presiding at her first White House function—an informal luncheon for old friends and neighbors from Marion, Ohio.

During the whole time she was mistress of the Executive Mansion, Mrs. Harding continued with her social duties an unwavering allegiance to her convictions, and displayed in doing so a degree of tact which won her universal esteem. The social usages so long a part of official Washington life were preserved by her to the letter but without ostentation. And at the same time she found opportunity to show in many ways that she had lost none of her interest for the class of home folks from which she had come.

"Say that we are just folks," she told newspapermen when they asked her for a message to the people at the time of Mr. Harding's inauguration. "We are just folks, but when I enter the White House I propose to accept all of its social obligations and become the First Lady of the Land in truth as well as name."

The full significance of that promise was known to but a few of her intimate friends, and she had not seen a well day and she had reached a time of life when even the plucky cheerfulness with which she covered her almost continual suffering was certain to be broken by the exactions of her position. It would have been easy to surrender to the advice of physicians and friends, and, in half-retirement, to sit down amid the comforts of the White House and muse triumphantly over past years of struggle. Many women would have done it; but for her that was impossible. She declared that never would be counted a "quitter." With her new station in life, she said, went certain responsibilities, and these responsibilities she was determined not to shirk.

Nor did she interpret in any narrow sense the obligations of mutual helpfulness she had assumed when, in 1891, she became the wife of a struggling newspaper editor back in Marion. Even in those days she gave vastly more to the marriage partnership than a woman usually is able to contribute, and grown men in Marion today remember how she used to count out newspapers to them when they were newsboys. When the future President entered politics, she found new and unexpected ways of helping him. As the wife of a senator, she kept in touch with hundreds in her state who wanted help in Washington, besides maintaining her place fittingly in the social life of the capital.

Well Informed
Of those gathered round Mr. Harding when he entered the pre-convention campaign of 1920, there was none who kept better informed of what was done to further his candidacy than Mrs. Harding. She had opinions, and she was outspoken in expressing them to the men entrusted with management of the campaign. After the primaries in Ohio, Indiana, and Michigan, when the outlook for success was darkest, there were experienced politicians who advised the candidate to withdraw. But she was not one who believed in giving up, once a fight had been begun, and some of the men who know most of the inside story of those trying weeks gave to her the credit for keeping Mr. Harding in the race he was eventually to win.

After the nomination Mrs. Harding became the pivot of the growing threat of physical collapse, an active figure in the front porch campaign. Not only did she appear always with her husband when he faced a crowd, but she remained beside him when the lines formed to shake his hand, and she gave a hand-clasp also to every one of the many thousands who filed past to acclaim his candidacy. Besides all of that, she visited his headquarters almost daily and talked political policies with his advisers, and she entertained at her table many of the distinguished visitors who came to Marion and exchanged opinions on national issues with them over the teas.

From the time Mr. Harding became interested in politics, she made a study of things political just as she had familiarized herself previously with the Marion STAR printing plant, and when the results of the 1920 elections had been written into political history, neighbors in Marion nodded their heads and related how the young editor's wife had promised her intimates on her wedding day that "some day I will make him President."

President Harding was the second husband of Mrs. Harding. Her first was Henry DeWolfe, whose parents were neighbors of the Kling family. This marriage, contracted early in life, proved to be unhappy and the future mistress of the White House, obtained a divorce in 1885 on the grounds of gross neglect. One son, Marshall Eugene Wolfe, lived to manhood. His death occurred in 1911.

This is the home of the late Brigadier General Charles E. Sawyer, personal physician to President Harding, on White Oaks Farm near Marion, O. In this house the late president's widow spent her last illness.

LADY ASTOR HAS FAITH IN HER OWN SEX

Brighton, Nov. 21.—(A. P.)—Lady Astor's confidence in her own sex was voiced again in a speech to delegates attending the annual conference of the National Council of Women of Great Britain and Ireland. She described the younger generation as full of "hope, zeal, confidence and blissful ignorance."

"The only way we can affect youth," Lady Astor said, "is not in what we can do for them, but in what we are. I have unshaken faith in my sex. I truly believe that women coming into public life is the greatest spiritual step forward that has happened for generations. The most selfish service comes from women."

She asked girls to think for themselves and make up the kind of minds they wanted. "It is said," she continued, "that our young people are going back on Christianity. I don't agree with that. I believe the young people who are thinking for themselves may be far nearer the Kingdom than the young people who accepted the faith of their forefathers blindly. Blind faith is not Christianity. I do not think when so many women are thinking that they are going to reject Christianity."

ELECTRIC AND STEAM TRAINS ON SAME TRACK

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 21.—Operation of an electric interurban system and the regular steam railway traffic on a single-track line was pronounced successful here after 15 days of trial. The Texas Interurban Railway is cooperating with the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad in operating a joint line between Dallas and Denton, a college town 33 miles north of here.

The joint operation was decided when the interurban company, in fulfilling a contract with the city of Dallas, decided that Denton was the best town in the surrounding territory to include in the net work of connecting electric lines. A proposition was made to the railroad company to rent its track, obviating the construction of a parallel road. A joint dispatching system, under the supervision of the steam line company, is maintained. Each electric passenger train and each steam passenger train is considered first class, the electric express trains, second class and the steam freight trains third class. The electric company operates 30 passenger trains, and four express trains, while the railroad company runs four passenger trains and two freight trains. The interurban company pays a stipulated sum monthly for the use of the track, and in addition pays a sum for the maintenance of the right of way, and its pro-rata share of the dispatching cost. Before the inauguration of the electric system, the steam line to Denton, which was just a branch line of the "Katy," was not a paying proposition, but since the electric line has started using the track, the line has become a better paying proposition for both companies, officials said.

MARKET LIST IS PROVIDED

Washington, N. D., Nov. 21.—"I have sold several articles through your marketing list in the past and certainly appreciate the service," says one of the farmers in a letter to County Agent A. L. ## WILL REOPEN DEATH PROBE

Undertaker Embalming Body
Finds Evidence of Foul
Play

Warroad, Minn., Nov. 21.—Investigation into the death of Mrs. Elsie Wheeler, who was found dead in a cabin in the isolated county of the northwest angle of Minnesota, will be reopened, it was declared by county authorities here when an undertaker embalming the body found evidence that indicated possible foul play caused the woman's death. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

Carl Listig, licensed embalmer of Roseau, who was preparing the body of Mrs. Wheeler for shipment to Kansas, discovered a cut about two inches long in the woman's head.

Authorities of Lake of the Woods county were notified and they declared there were sufficient grounds for further investigation of the case. Sheriff Blund and County Attorney Middleton, are in charge of the investigation.

The woman's death was discovered by her husband and Carl Hagen, with whom the couple was staying in the Hagen cabin on Nov. 13. Hagen and a friend set out for this place where they notified authorities. The officials, accompanied by the two men left on Monday for the cabin. A coroner's jury was improvised and it was held the woman came to her death scrambling on a butcher knife in the kitchen of the cabin. The party returned here with the body Wednesday. The incident was considered closed until last night when authorities were notified of the undertaker's discovery.

Officials of Lake of the Woods county granted the relatives who came here to take the woman's remains back to Clearwater, Kans. It was said by relatives that Mrs. Wheeler owned a large tract of land near Clearwater.

Dr. Drake of Bandette, and Dr. Elliot of this place made a thorough investigation of the body and it was upon their suggestion that county authorities decided to reopen their inquiry.

RUSSIA BEGINS WORK ON 12 SHIPS AS NUCLEUS OF MERCHANT MARINE

Leningrad, Nov. 21.—(A. P.)—Soviet Russia has begun the creation of its own merchant marine. It has just laid the keels of eight cargo boats and four passenger steamers. The vessels will be built entirely in Soviet shipyards, principally at the Potilov Iron Works and the Baltic Shipbuilding Yards here.

The total cost of the 12 vessels, which will have an aggregate of 35,000 tons, will be $5,000,000. They will be completed early in 1926. The government hopes through these steamers to lower freight rates and to compete with foreign shipowners.

If starch moistened with a little warm water is applied to a bruise, it will prevent the flesh from becoming discolored.

BRITISH ARE AROUSSED OVER SIRDAR'S DEATH

Cabinet Meeting Held, Understood for Purpose of Discussing Outrage

London, Nov. 21. The announcement from Cairo of the death of Major General Sir Lee Stack has aroused tense feeling in London. The British cabinet held a specially summoned council probably to discuss the outrage and the policy to be followed. At that time, however, the Sirdar had not succumbed to the wounds inflicted by assassins.

Although the king of Egypt and the Sudan authorities have taken a correct attitude it is expected that the British government will dispatch a strong note insisting on prompt satisfaction for the assassination and guarantee for the cessation of anti-British propaganda.

ATTACKED BY GROUP
Cairo, Nov. 21. Major General Sir Lee Oliver Stack, governor-general of Sudan and sirdar of the Egyptian army since 1919 has succumbed to the bullets of assassins. He died last night in a Cairo hospital.

The sirdar was attacked Wednesday by a group of men who failed to achieve their purpose with a bomb and opened fire upon him with revolvers. General Stack was wounded in the abdomen, the hand and the foot, one of the bullets passing under the lung.

Lady Stack who was induced overnight to take a much needed rest, remained by her husband's side all the time.

The country is profoundly shocked at the outrage and the gravity of the situation is everywhere realized. The press denounces the crime in the strongest terms. The Sengulist papers unanimously declare Egypt's honor demands the discovery of the culprits and their exemplary punishment. Nothing, they assert, will be neglected to "wash away the bloody stain on the country's honor."

Thus far the assassins have not been traced.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

THE GREAT LAKES TIDEWATER PROJECT

The powerful influence exerted by the Suez canal on Asiatic and Oriental Trade and the changes being wrought by the Panama Canal are sufficient to cause a far-seeing citizen to visualize mighty developments in the United States should the proposed Great Lakes-St. Lawrence River Tidewater project be carried out. The project, in brief, would make it possible for ocean-going vessels to leave ports on the Great Lakes such as Duluth and not discharge their cargoes until they had reached Europe or some other destination. At the present time, water routes with frequent unloadings or part-rail routes must be used in shipments from Great Lake ports to Europe.

North Dakota, now far distant from both the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts, thus would be brought close to the ocean. Benefit would accrue to the state in that five cents a bushel or more would be saved on each bushel of grain exported. Cheapening of transportation would make the Great Lakes Region the greatest industrial center in the world. It now is pointing that way. New and close markets for North Dakota agricultural products would be created, with a consequent increase in population in this state.

It is estimated that on heavy products like steel a saving of from four to eight dollars a ton in freight would be made; a great saving would be effected on scores of other products. Electrical horse power estimated at 1,646,000 would be developed along the St. Lawrence River.

It is a mighty project, and at first glance appears one of those visions often conjured up for changing the destinies of a nation. But engineers have found the project feasible from their standpoint. The estimated cost is $252,000,000 as compared to $400,000,000 it cost to build the Panama Canal. Great Lakes tonnage records serve to indicate that many times the freight handled on the Panama Canal would move over the tidewater route. The Panama Canal now is showing a good profit on its operations.

All North Dakota agencies should lend a hand toward the Great Lakes project. It probably will be before the next Congress. The Northwest ought to strike, and strike hard, for favorable action.

BOOTLEG

The Rum Fleet off New York harbor is landing liquor in airplanes. It may not be many months until the flying machine will be the foremost problem of revenue agents. A Canadian plane is reported to take advance orders from N. H. farmers and drop its cargo, attached to parachutes, here and there as it flies low.

Criminals are quick to utilize new inventions. Airplanes will soon be widely used for smuggling and making raids and getaways. Some of the eastern cities already are adding flying squadrons to their regular patrol work.

ANIMALS

Elephants are the most intelligent of all animals, monkeys next, dogs third, says Lorenz Hagenback of the noted German family of wild beast dealers.

Why argue about it? There never was an elephant, monkey or dog that had a tenth the intelligence of the average three-year-old boy or girl. Patient training is frequently mistaken for intelligence. But that's as true of people as of animals.

GOLD PERIL

Our "gold peril" is nearing its end, bankers say. They mean, the great flood of gold into the United States from abroad has been materially checked. Recently gold imports have been the smallest in nearly five years.

Economists hold that the presence of an abnormally large amount of gold in a country tends to inflate prices. Accordingly most of us, not having any of the gold, will say, "Ship it all back."

FAILURES

Number of business failures has been low, considering dull times. So far this year, 1700 firms a month have gone to the wall. That looks like a lot, but not when you recall that the total of business organizations is around two millions. A lot of the men with small-profit businesses would be better off if they failed and had to get into something else. Being your own boss is not always what it's cracked up to be.

DROWNED

The last few years have been rich in discoveries of ancient ruins and tombs, indicating that man has lived on this planet longer and more civilized in ancient days than previously supposed. Civilizations seem to have flourished everywhere, from Egypt to Mongolia and Nevada—and now in the southern Mediterranean a wonderful submerged city is located, 30 feet under the water. Count Prorok's divers will explore it.

SPENDING

Politically the nation has overwhelmingly proclaimed by its ballots that it is in a conservative frame of mind. Unfortunately for all of us, if this conservatism asserts itself in money matters.

Spending is what makes prosperity—keeps factories and stores busy.

HATCHET-MEN

Even in their criminal ramifications, our Chinese population is more desirable than some others. You may have noticed that when Chinese conduct tong wars, blackmail, murder or otherwise run true to sensational fiction, they confine their operations to members of their own race and leave the white man alone. Exceptions are rare.

Cleanliness may be next to godliness in some localities, but in others it is next to impossible.

FARMERS "ON THE AIR"

(Boston Transcript)

It is estimated that there are 370,000 radio sets in use on farms in the United States. The total is impressive, in view of the fact that the radio has come into general use within the past several years. But the process of getting the farmer in touch with the world by communication through the ether is only beginning. The total number of farms in the United States is about 6,500,000. If the present estimate is correct the radio has found its place on about one farm in twenty. While that is remarkable development considering the short time since the days when the radio, for practical purposes, was unknown, it leaves more than 6,000,000 farms yet to be so equipped that the entertainment and instruction broadcast day and night may reach the dwellers upon them.

To the farmer the radio is taking its place as a business necessity, as well as a means of entertainment, and the dissemination of a vast quantity of general information of more or less value. It enables him to receive daily price quotations from the cities, together with comment on prevailing market conditions. He is thus placed on equality with the city man so far as information is concerned, when it comes to the sale of his products. The time is at hand when no intelligent farmer will want to be left in that state of darkness implied by the absence of the radio set from the farm house.

TRUE PUBLIC OPINION

(Washington Post)

A New York cleric declares that public opinion is no longer a public guide in morals. He is wrong. When it comes to the real things of life, in America at least, public opinion holds fast to the standards that have been maintained through the ages. It still rises in righteous wrath against corruption in public office. It still demands justice for all elements of the population. It still resents exploitation by profiteers. It still condemns indecency. Public opinion is the champion of the virtues, and can be counted on to maintain that championship against all attack.

The trouble with the New York cleric is that he mistakes the chatter of New York for the deep voice of the American people.

CROSS PATCH GETS INTO TROUBLE

"The last riddle was too easy," said the Riddle Lady.

"They are not," declared Cross Patch. "If I like them hard."

"Oh, dear me! What very bad manners!" whispered Miss Muffet to Bo Peep. "But he's had no bringing up, poor thing, so what could you expect."

"Well, perhaps this one will suit you better," said the Riddle Lady. "It is very short and it doesn't rhyme."

"What is as crooked as a pretzel, as hard as a bone, as tight as a new shoe, as safe as a bank, and as puzzling as a riddle?"

It comes in shoe-laces, wood and ocellus.

Everybody looked at Cross Patch. "Can you guess that one?" asked the Wise-Man-Of-Our-Town.

Cross Patch shifted from one foot to the other. "Oh, that's easy!" he said. "It's a knot—why, it's a—"

"Oh, I think I'll have to go and get my coat. I feel as though I was catching cold."

"Isn't that the way?" laughed Jack Spratt. "Some people are never satisfied."

Nobody could guess the answer. They guessed everything from ships to a shoe-button.

And finally what do you think! The Riddle Lady had to tell them. "It's a knot," she said. "Knots come in shoe-laces, don't they?"

"Yes," said Nancy.

"And in wood? You often see those round furniture pieces in boards that sometimes drop out and leave holes. Well, they are called knots, too!"

"That's right," said Nick.

"And in the ocean nobody says miles," went on the Riddle Lady. "Captains of ships always say that a boat can go so many knots an hour. A knot is a little more than a mile."

"That's a good one but a hard one," said Doctor Foster. "I never could have guessed it."

"Here is an easy one then," said the Riddle Lady.

"Roly Poly is as fat as butter—yet you can see his ribs. Indeed he has to have hoops to hold him together."

"He has two crowns to his head, but no eyes or ears. Nothing but a nose."

"Who is Roly Poly?"

"Is it the Fat Man of Bombay?" asked Little Boy Blue.

"Oh, ho!" shouted Nick. "He has eyes and ears, hasn't he? And you can't see his ribs, can you?"

"That's right—you can't," said Little Boy Blue.

"I know what it is," said Tom Tucker. "It's a barrel. I know because we have one in the cellar to keep molasses in. I like it on my bread and butter."

"That's right, Tommy," said the Riddle Lady. "What would you like for a prize?"

"A knife," said Tommy quickly. "No one can ever seem to find one to cut my bread for me."

"A queer prize, but you shall have it," said the Riddle Lady.

Why Not Sentence Speeders to Public Humiliation?*The Tangle

LETTER FROM PAULA PERIER TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT, CONTINUED

I am sure our baby is not a child of destiny because you and I, my dear, are very ordinary human creatures and we had nothing to lay at the feet of Fate to make her give any more to our child than thousands of other misguided men and women who have not counted on the future while living wholly in the glories of the present.

I have come to the conclusion that all this which is to be our boy's is because of your wife Leslie—I am not sure that she would like me to call her Leslie, but I do it to myself and to my God when I think him for her daily.

It is not to you, John Prescott, that I owe my belief in a God and a feeling that somewhere, sometime, somehow everything will be all right, but to your wife.

The other night I heard a man—a moving picture actor—talk upon the new kind of religion which has for its basis one's attraction of the All-good to oneself. The theory being that if you are good, that if you acknowledge that all is good within you, you can not help but have all the good you ask for and believe is yours.

To us little Jack was a burden. He was a constant reminder of our sin. I loved him more than anything in my life, but I never thought of that love without more or less unhappiness. I could always see the bar sinister across his forehead.

The 10th Lord has all been different. She loves you much more than I ever did who do not love you the least little bit now. She loved you so much that she could love her love child without prejudice. Her love was better than mine ever was and because "she loved much" I almost feel that even my sins have been vicariously forgiven me.

It's a strange thing that I have been writing to you an entirely different letter than I intended. What I meant to say was that little Jack having become a very rich baby, he doesn't need anything that I can do for him. He has love, wealth and position and the best thing that I can give to him now will be to forget that he ever was mine just as I have forgotten you, mon ami. I am going from now on to forget that I have ever lived before I came to this beautiful place.

When I knew you I was still quite French. If you remember I could not speak the language without putting it into French idioms. Today I am entirely American—except when I want to be French.

So you are going over to Pittsburgh to live and little Jack will probably be one of the great captains of industry of the future. You will probably take him into the plant as soon as he comes out of college.

For once I have written you just what was in my heart. I am not going to write you again—unless something comes up which is very important to me.

I dare you to tell Leslie that you have received a letter from me and that I am sending my love to her because I know that God has been good to me in letting me know at least one good woman who is not a bore—in letting me know one good woman who is worth all the men in the world.

SURE CURE FOR SPEEDERS

By Albert Apple

You read the Kansas City judge's threat to make wife-beaters stand on prominent downtown corners, under police guard, holding placards advertising their offense.

It's an idea borrowed from the Chinese. They've used it for centuries. More recently they have made convicted profiteers parade their downtown district and home neighborhoods, grasping big banners carrying the story of their crimes and ringing bells to attract attention.

Wouldn't it be a good idea for local judges to administer stiff doses of this brand of medicine to auto speeders who endanger human life?

American autos kill 50 victims a day. Each year there is one auto death for every 760 cars.

Educational campaigns seem unable to cope with the situation; compulsory inspection of traffic victims at morgues; occasional trials on manslaughter charges; these help, but are not sufficient.

Why not banners to be carried by speeders? Ahoy, judges!

New York, Nov. 21.—Two girls in front of the Waldorf buy horse race charts, eagerly turn the pages and read down the columns of winners and also-loses.

Two sportive chorus girls, me-thinks. Not a bit of it! Their grandmother is just a pace behind them.

"Did you win, dearie, she asks. "No, the nag ran third," one of the girls answers.

Handbooks do an enormous business in New York. A fellow who knows quite a bit about that sort of thing told me the other day that an average of $500,000 a day is bet in New York on horse races, winter and summer, by people who seldom, if ever, see a race run.

Bookmakers have agents in almost every big office building. Some of these agents accept as little as 25 cents a bet. That is true especially in buildings where girls wager on the horses.

Most of the bookmakers are affiliated with the Big Book in Hoboken, bobbed in the center of all race track gambling in the United States. New York layers of odds who are acquainted over there have certain pass words on the telephone. If they receive more wagers on a horse than they care to chance in cashing they call Hoboken and "lay off" part of the money.

The Big Book in Hoboken will take a bet in any amount. The operators know that in the long run they have everything to gain and nothing to lose. Every horse in every race is a medium of play. And only one horse can win.

Eugene is a cynical headwater. "People who come in here don't know what boozes they are," he told me the other evening. "In all likelihood the booze we sell is watered before we get it. We add enough."

FABLES ON HEALTH COMFORTABLE CLOTHES

"They may not be stylish, but they're comfortable." Mr. Jones, of Anytown, frequently would say in connection with his shoes or his collar or his clothing.

The matter of being comfortably dressed plays a great part in the human state of mind. It may be that certain styles are essential if certain social successes are to be enjoyed, but creature comforts are best for the nerves and feeling of well being.

It is doubtful if man was ever intended to make a hatrack or clothesline out of his body, and uncomfortable clothes are uncomfortable because they are bothering some organ of the body member. Thus tight vests, corsets and belts may be cramping the abdominal tract, pressing against the heart, interfering with circulation or doing a dozen and one other things.

Washington Interested But Has To Look On

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

Washington, Nov. 21.—One day in every four years Washington takes a back seat.

On all other days Washington may strut and put on airs as the nation's capital, but on election day it becomes merely a bystander among cities, an onlooker, watching and wondering what the verdict of the country is to be, but itself without any voice in the outcome.

For in voiceless Washington there is no election. No city in the country is so intimately affected by the results of the nation's balloting, and the smallest town or cross-roads hamlet may have say-so in the result.

The whole structure of official life, around which the governmental and social life of the city will revolve for four years, is decided for Washington by Walla-Walla, Keokuk and Kalamazoo.

So on election day, when other cities are rampant with the spirit of an enfranchised electorate, empowered to make or mar their well-being as they may choose, Washington plods along in its old rut, waiting, watching, wondering—hoping, perhaps—but without a vote to cast or a word to say.

Apparently the least interested man in Washington, during the period when the country was balloting to decide the next president of the United States, was the slight, severe-faced, sandy-haired man whom the outcome most closely affected.

Whether it was his supreme confidence in the result or whether it was the New England discipline by which his mind is ruled that enabled him to proceed with "business as usual," possibly he himself doesn't know. Probably both had a hand in it.

Anyway, while in other cities voters were rushing to the polls and strife and suspense regarding the outcome were monopolizing men's minds, President Coolidge reported at his office on schedule, ready to tackle a normal day's grist in the executive mill.

General Lord, director of the budget, who was first on the president's election day schedule of callers, emerged from the executive sanctum after an hour's session frankly flabbergasted.

Dinner Dance At Temple This Evening

Through the kindness of the Masons and Eastern Star members in loaning the dining and dance committee whatever they asked for and especially to the ladies for giving their time in preparing the dinner, it has been possible to make preparations for a wonderful evening. The dinner with all its niceties will carry out the spirit of Thanksgiving. The dance, while it is informal, yet there will be a spirit of luxuriance and happiness due to the efforts of the dancing committee. The dinner will be served at 7 o'clock and dancing will start after the dinner.

RETURNS TO CITY

W. F. McGraw, until recently superintendent of construction of the bridge built across the Red River at Pembina, has completed his work and returned to Bismarck to be with the state highway commission. Mrs. McGraw and family, who spent the summer at Minnesota lakes, returned recently. They are occupying their property at 324 Anderson.

TO VISIT IN MINNESOTA

Mr. and Mrs. H. Kieckul of Baldwin left this morning for Clearbrook, Minnesota, where they will visit with Mrs. Kieckul's niece, John Garner, who has been visiting in Baldwin for the past few months left with them for Clearbrook, his home.

At The Movies

AT THE CAPITOL
Charles Ray's dramatic triumph, "Dynamite Smith," is at the Capitol Theatre until Sunday. It is a gripping, thrilling and picturesque story of a timid young man who, on his first adventure in the world of men, encounters tragedy, love, hate, vengeance, fear and courage beyond his wildest dreams. Those who remember Ray's famous characterizations of the bushy boy, will rejoice in "Dynamite Smith." Those who have never seen him in such will find Charles Ray at his superlative best. It is a part that brings out all the charm of his personality and the strength and depth of his talent.

THE ELLING
"Merton of the Movies" which opened at the Elling Theatre last night for a three days' run, was made famous first as a Saturday Evening Post story by Harry Leon Wilson. It was hailed as a masterpiece of satire and shortly afterwards appeared as a play. Its success on the stage was instantaneous and phenomenal. For more than a year it delighted audiences at the Cort Theatre in New York and was later sent on tour where it duplicated its success in some of the largest cities of the United States. It was inevitable that it should find its way to the screen. "Merton" is ideal motion picture material. Glenn Hunter as "Merton" shows us what happens to a small-town youth who goes to Hollywood, determined to become a movie star. His adventures constitute a heart gripping epic of push and shove, drama, richly woven with typically American humor and a beautiful love story. Poor Merton! The harder he tries, the louder the audience laughs! "Merton of the Movies" is one of the greatest comedy-dramas ever flashed on the screen.

Boy Scouts Give Supper

The Presbyterian Boy Scouts put on a spread Wednesday evening with Dan LeRoy, Gerald Vettel, Morris Kelevan and Ronald McIntyre in charge of the "Hunter's Steer" which was the center of attraction. Rolls, coffee and apples rounded out the meal which they all voted a success. Mention should be made of Walter LeRoy who led the boys in several appropriate songs. Plans were outlined for active work and several candidates were considered.

Chase-Yule Nuptials

Miss Mary Chase, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chase of Mont. N. D., and John Harold Yule, of Bismarck, were united in marriage last evening, November 20, at 7 o'clock, at the home of J. Bowers, the Rev. J. V. Reichert of the Zion Lutheran church officiating.

Miss Chase was a very attractive bride, wearing a gown of black crepe, heavily beaded with rhinestones, made up in long lines. Her carriage was of rose.

Miss Chase was attended by Mrs. J. Bowers, as matron of honor, while Mr. Bowers acted as groomsmen. A wedding supper was served immediately after the ceremony with Mrs. Bowers acting as hostess.

Mike Chase of Max, N. D., and Roy Yule of Valley City were out-of-town guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Yule will be at home at the J. Bowers residence.

Cynthia Grey Says:

WHY SPEAK OF LOVE?

It's true enough that love makes the world go 'round. But it does a lot of odd jobs on the side, too.

Except for love, no velvet hats would be sold in August, no summer straw ones in January. There would be no beauty shops, no dance records, no plots for movies—without love.

There would be no clay-peaks for men in barber shops, no sheik haircuts, no bay rum on the bald spot.

But for love, the diamonds would still be in the mines at Kimberley, and the pearls in the oysters. The perfume would still be in the roses in Grasse, and the ostrich would wear its own tail-feathers!

There would be no reducing diets, no permanent-wave machines, and "Three Weeks" would never have been written.

QUESTIONS—ANSWERS

Dear Miss Grey: I am seventeen and am wild about a man of twenty. We don't go around with other girls or boys, as we have been sweethearts for a year. Mother thinks I ought to have other friends. Is she right?—Josephine.

Of course she's right. You can always count on mother when it comes to your welfare. You are much too young to have only one boy friend.

Dear Miss Grey: I am a young married woman and I go out to parties rather often. But I seldom can think of anything to say to keep up my end of the conversation. How can I overcome this?—Jane N.

Look over the daily papers and try to remember the interesting topics in it. Women at this stage of progress are interested in politics and books and plays particularly. Read up on those things.

The Good I Do

New beauty, new youth at your call
By Edna Wallace Hopper

To every girl I offer the beauty of what a clean skin means. The help that France gave me. The help that made me famous.

To every woman I offer my aids to perennial youth. The aids which keep me after 10 years of stage life, looking like a girl of 19.

I am doing enormous good. I know that from the thousands of letters which reach my office daily. But I want more to share that good.

My Youth Cream
My Youth Cream is a remarkable creation, combining many factors. It contains product of both lemon and strawberries. Also all the best help science gave me to foster and protect the skin.

It comes in two types—cold cream and vanishing. I use it as a night cream, also daytimes as a powder base. Never is my skin without it. My velvet complexion shows what that cream can do.

The cost is 60c per jar.

My Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser which I also owe to France. Great beauty experts the world over now advise this formula, but their price is too high for most women. It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. So it cleans to the depths, then departs. All the dirt, grease, grime and dead skin come out with it. My Facial Youth will bring you new conceptions.

EMPLOYEE OF STATE INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

George H. Ritter, Assistant Dairy Commissioner, Said in Critical Condition

George H. Ritter, assistant state dairy commissioner, was said to be in a critical condition in a local hospital this afternoon, suffering from injuries sustained in an automobile accident south of Dawson yesterday afternoon. An immediate operation was decided on in an effort to determine the extent of internal injuries and relieve internal ruptures.

BOY AND GIRL DIE IN CITY

A boy and a girl, both 13 years of age, died in Bismarck this morning. Albert Mueller, aged 13 years and eight months, died of a complication of diseases, said to be due to heart trouble, in a local hospital. The body will be sent to Kulm, the home of the parents.

Miss Clara Bullinger, aged 13 years and two months, also died here, at 11 o'clock this morning. The body will be taken to Timmer tomorrow for burial.

Weds Sister Of Flier Who 'Winged' Him

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 21.—Two airplanes, a German and one American, fought a thrilling duel in the air over

Dijon, France, during the world war. The German was captured after being wounded by the gunfire from the American's plane.

The German, Baron Hans Von Ringhausen, former German aviator came here to marry Mrs. Bertha M. Wendell, sister to the American Charles E. Cummings, former air pilot at the foreign legion. Mrs. Wendell nursed the Baron back to health when she was a Red Cross nurse in the prison camp.

The Baron and Mrs. Wendell were married last night and will make their home in Omaha.

Negro Given 4-Year Sentence

Fargo, Nov. 21.—Charles McAdoo, negro, who was found guilty recently by the jury in Cass county district court on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to do bodily harm, was given a sentence of four years in the state penitentiary by District Judge M. J. Engbert. McAdoo, who shot "Lucky Dreams" Spencer following a street corner quarrel here this fall, was given the heaviest sentence of the day.

Red River Dairymen Would Have President Act

Third River Falls, Minn., Nov. 21. President Coolidge was urged to raise the present tariff on butter to 12 cents a pound temporarily until Congress can investigate the matter thoroughly, in resolutions adopted by the Red River Valley Dairymen's association at the closing session of its 25th annual convention here.

The resolution expressed the hope that after a congressional investigation the tariff would be raised even above 12 cents per pound. It was stated that the low wage and living standards in European countries materially affected the butter industry in America.

Chris Reen was endorsed in resolutions for reappointment as state food and dairy commissioner by the incoming state administration. Other resolutions adopted favored moral and financial support of boys and girls clubs; and congratulated farmers of Northwestern Minnesota for their great advance in raising alfalfa. All officers were re-elected.

Dinner Dance At Temple This Evening

Through the kindness of the Masons and Eastern Star members in loaning the dinner and dance committee whatever they asked for and especially to the ladies for giving their time in preparing the dinner, it has been possible to make preparations for a wonderful evening. The dinner with all its niceties will carry out the spirit of Thanksgiving. The dance, while it is informal, yet there will be a spirit of luxurious happiness due to the efforts of the decorating committee. The dinner will be served at 7 o'clock and dancing will start after the dinner.

At The Movies

AT THE CAPITOL
Charles Ray's dramatic triumph, "Dynamite Smith," is at the Capitol Theatre until Sunday. It is a gripping, thrilling and picturesque story of a timid young man who, on his first adventure in the world of men, encounters tragedy, love, hate, vengeance, fear and courage beyond his wildest dreams. Those who remember Ray's famous characterizations of the bushy haired boy, will rejoice in "Dynamite Smith." Those who have never seen him in such will find Charles Ray at his superlative best. It is a part that brings out all the charm of his personality and the strength and depth of his talent.

THE ELTINGE
"Merton of the Movies" which opened at the Eltinge Theatre last night for a three days' run, was made famous first as a Saturday Evening Post story by Harry Leon Wilson. It was hailed as a masterpiece of satire and shortly afterwards appeared as a play. Its success on the stage was instantaneous and phenomenal. For more than a year it delighted audiences at the Cort Theatre in New York and was later sent on tour where it duplicated its success in some of the largest cities of the United States. It was inevitable that it should find its way to the screen. "Merton" is ideal motion picture material. Glenn Hunter as "Merton" shows us what happens to a small-town youth who goes to Hollywood, determined to become a movie star. His adventures constitute a heart gripping epic of pathos and drama, richly woven with typically American humor and a beautiful love story. Poor Merton! The harder he tries, the louder the audience laughs! "Merton of the Movies" is one of the greatest comedy-dramas burlesques ever flashed on the screen.

The Presbyterian Boy Scouts put on a spread Wednesday evening with Dan LeRoy, Gerald Vettel, Morris Kelsen and Ronald McIntyre in charge of the "Hunter's Stew" which was the center of attraction. Rolls, coffee and apples rounded out the meal which they all voted a success. Mention should be made of Walter LeRoy who led the boys in several appropriate songs. Plans were outlined for active work and several candidates were considered.

Chase-Yule Nuptials

Miss Mary Chase, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chase of Mott, N. D., and John Harold Yule, of Bismarck, were united in marriage last evening, November 20, at 7 o'clock, at the home of J. Bowers, the Rev. J. V. Reichert of the Zion Lutheran church officiating.

Miss Chase was a very attractive bride, wearing a gown of black crepe, heavily beaded with rhinestones, made up in long lines. Her corsage was of roses.

Miss Chase was attended by Mrs. J. Bowers, as matron of honor, while Mr. Bowers acted as groomsmen. A wedding supper was served immediately after the ceremony with Mrs. Bowers acting as hostess.

Mike Chase of Max, N. D., and Roy Yule of Valley City were out-of-town guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Yule will be at home at the J. Bowers residence.

Cynthia Grey Says:

WHY SPEAK OF LOVE?

It's true enough that love makes the world go 'round. But it does a lot of odd jobs on the side, too.

Except for love, no velvet hats would be sold in August, no summer straw ones in January. There would be no beauty shops, no dance records, no plots for movies—without love.

There would be no clay-parks for men in barber shops, no sheik haircuts, no bay rum on the bald spot.

But for love, the diamonds would still be in the mines at Kimberley, and the pearls in the oysters. The perfume would still be in the roses in Grasse, and the ostrich would wear its own tail-feathers!

There would be no reducing diets, no permanent-wave machines, and "Three Weeks" would never have been written.

QUESTIONS—ANSWERS

Dear Miss Grey: I am seventeen and am wild about a man of twenty. We don't go around with other girls or boys, as we have been sweethearts for a year. Mother thinks I ought to have other men friends. Is she right?—Josephine.

Of course she's right. You can always count on mother when it comes to your welfare. You are much too young to have only one boy friend.

Dear Miss Grey: I am a young married woman and I go out to parties rather often. But I seldom can think of anything to say to keep up my end of the conversation. How can I overcome this?—Jane N.

Look over the daily papers and try to remember the interesting topics in it. Women at this stage of progress are interested in politics and books and plays particularly. Read up on those things.

The Good I Do

New beauty, new youth at your call
By Edna Wallace Hopper

To every girl I offer the beauty help that France gave me. The helps that made me famous.

To every woman I offer my aids to perennial youth. The aids which keep me, after 40 years of stage life, looking like a girl of 19.

I am doing enormous good. I know that from the thousands of letters which reach my office daily. But I want more to share that good.

My Youth Cream
My Youth Cream is a remarkable creation, combining many factors. It contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best helps science gave me to foster and protect the skin.

It comes in two types—cold cream and vanishing. I use it as a night cream, also daytimes as a powder base. Never is my skin without it. My velvet complexion shows what that cream can do.

The cost is 60c per jar.

My Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser which I also owe to France. Great beauty experts the world over now advise this formula, but their price is too high for most women. It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. So it cleans to the depths, then departs. All the dirt, grease, grime and dead skin come out with it. My Facial Youth will bring you new conceptions

An immediate operation was decided on in an effort to determine the extent of internal injuries and relieve internal ruptures.

Mr. Ritter was driving to Bismarck to attend a dinner of employees of the state department of agriculture when his automobile, a light coupe, struck sand. It turned over. The machine was badly smashed and he was seriously injured, although no bones were broken. He was brought to a hospital here, and grew worse as internal injuries appeared to be affecting his condition.

Mr. Ritter was injured about a year ago, when an automobile he was driving struck a water tank wagon which a road construction crew had left on the highway.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

THE GREAT LAKES TIDEWATER PROJECT
The powerful influence exerted by the Suez canal on A-tatic and Oriental Trade and the changes being wrought by the Panama Canal are sufficient to cause a far-seeing citizen to visualize mighty developments in the United States should the proposed Great Lakes-St. Lawrence River Tidewater project be carried out. The project, in brief, would make it possible for ocean-going vessels to leave ports on the Great Lakes such as Duluth and not discharge their cargoes until they had reached Europe or some other destination. At the present time, water routes with frequent unloadings or part-rail routes must be used in shipments from Great Lake ports to Europe.

North Dakota, now far distant from both the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts, thus would be brought close to the ocean. Benefit would accrue to the state in that five cents a bushel or more would be saved on each bushel of grain exported. Cheapening of transportation would make the Great Lakes Region the greatest industrial center in the world. It now is pointing that way. New and close markets for North Dakota agricultural products would be created, with a consequent increase in population in this state.

It is estimated that on heavy products like steel a saving of from four to eight dollars a ton in freight would be made; a great saving would be effected on scores of other products. Electrical horse power estimated at 1,646,000 would be developed along the St. Lawrence River.

It is a mighty project, and at first glance appears one of those visions often conjured up for changing the destinies of a nation. But engineers have found the project feasible from their standpoint. The estimated cost is $252,000,000 as compared to $400,000,000 it cost to build the Panama Canal. Great Lakes tonnage records serve to indicate that many times the freight handled on the Panama Canal would move over the tidewater route. The Panama Canal now is showing a good profit on its operations.

All North Dakota agencies should lend a hand toward the Great Lakes project. It probably will be before the next Congress. The Northwest ought to strike, and strike hard, for favorable action.

BOOTLEG

The Rum Fleet off New York harbor is landing liquor in airplanes. It may not be many months until the flying machine will be the foremost problem of revenue agents. A Canadian plane is reported to take advance orders from N. H. farmers and drop its cargo, attached to parachutes, here and there as it flies low.

Criminals are quick to utilize new inventions. Airplanes will soon be widely used for smuggling and making raids and getaways. Some of the eastern cities already are adding flying squadrons to their regular patrol work.

ANIMALS

Elephants are the most intelligent of all animals, monkeys next, dogs third, says Lorenz Hagenback of the noted German family of wild beast dealers.

Why argue about it? There never was an elephant, monkey or dog that had a tenth the intelligence of the average three-year-old boy or girl. Patient training is frequently mistaken for intelligence. But that's as true of people as of animals.

GOLD PERIL

Our "gold peril" is nearing its end, bankers say. They mean, the great flood of gold into the United States from abroad has been materially checked. Recently gold imports have been the smallest in nearly five years.

Economists hold that the presence of an abnormally large amount of gold in a country tends to inflate prices. Accordingly most of us, not having any of the gold, will say, "Ship it all back."

FAILURES

Number of business failures has been low, considering dull times. So far this year, 1700 firms a month have gone to the wall. That looks like a lot, but not when you recall that the total of business organizations is around two millions. A lot of the men with small-profit businesses would be better off if they failed and had to get into something else. Being your own boss is not always what it's cracked up to be.

DROWNED

The last few years have been rich in discoveries of ancient ruins and tombs, indicating that man has lived on this planet longer and more civilized in ancient days than previously supposed. Civilizations seem to have flourished everywhere, from Egypt to Mongolia and Nevada—and now in the southern Mediterranean a wonderful submerged city is located, 30 feet under the water. Count Prorok's divers will explore it.

SPENDING

Politically the nation has overwhelmingly proclaimed by its ballots that it is in a conservative frame of mind. Unfortunately for all of us, if this conservatism asserts itself in money matters.

Spending is what makes prosperity—keeps factories and stores busy.

HATCHET-MEN

Even in their criminal ramifications, our Chinese population is more desirable than some others. You may have noticed that when Chinese conduct tong wars, blackmail, murder or otherwise run true to sensational fiction, they confine their operations to members of their own race and leave the white man alone. Exceptions are rare.

Cleanliness may be next to godliness in some localities, but in others it is next to impossible.

FARMERS "ON THE AIR"

(Boston Transcript)

It is estimated that there are 270,000 radio sets in use on farms in the United States. The total is impressive, in view of the fact that the radio has come into general use within the past several years. But the process of getting the farmer in touch with the world by communication through the ether is only beginning. The total number of farms in the United States is about 6,500,000. If the present estimate is correct the radio has found its place on about one farm in twenty. While that is remarkable development considering the short time since the days when the radio, for practical purposes, was unknown, it leaves more than 6,000,000 farms yet to be so equipped that the entertainment and instruction broadcast day and night may reach the dwellers upon them.

To the farmer the radio is taking its place as a business necessity, as well as a means of entertainment, and the dissemination of a vast quantity of general information of more or less value. It enables him to receive daily price quotations from the cities, together with comment on prevailing market conditions. He is thus placed on equality with the city man so far as information is concerned, when it comes to the sale of his products. The time is at hand when no intelligent farmer will want to be left in that state of darkness implied by the absence of the radio set from the farm house.

THE PUBLIC OPINION

A Washington Post (Washington Post) declares that public opinion is no longer a competent guide in morals. He is wrong. When it comes to the real things of life, in America at least, public opinion holds fast to the standards that have been maintained through the ages. It still rises in righteous wrath against corruption in public office. It still demands justice for all elements of the population. It still condemns exploitation by profiteers. Public opinion is the champion of the virtues, and can be counted on to maintain that championship against all attack.

The trouble with the New York cleric is that he mistakes the chatter of New York for the deep voice of the American people.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

CROSS PATCH GETS INTO TROUBLE

"The last riddle was too easy," said the Riddle Lady.

"They are more fun when they are easy," said Nancy kindly.

"They are not," declared Cross Patch. "I like them hard."

"Oh, dear me! What very bad manners!" whispered Miss Muffet to Bessie. "But he's had no bringing up, poor thing, so what could you expect?"

"Well, perhaps this one will suit you better," said the Riddle Lady. "It is very short and it doesn't rhyme:

"What is as crooked as a pretzel, as hard as a bone, as tight as a new shoe, as safe as a bank, and as puzzling as a riddle?"

It comes in shoe-leeca, wood and oceans."

Everybody looked at Cross Patch. "Can you guess that one?" asked the Wise Man-Of-Our-Town.

"Cross Patch shifted from one foot to the other. "Oh, that's easy!" he said. "It's a—knot—it's a—knot!"

"Oh, I think I'll have to go and get my coat. I feel as though I'm catching cold."

"Isn't that the way!" laughed Jack Spratt. "Some people are never satisfied."

Nobody could guess the answer. They guessed everything from ships to a shoe-button.

And finally what do you think? The Riddle Lady had to tell them. "It's a knot," she said. "Knots come in shoe-leeca, wood and oceans."

"Yes," said Nancy.

"And in wood? You often see these round funny pieces in boards that sometimes drop out and leave holes. Well, they are called knots, too!"

"That's right," said Nick.

"And in the ocean nobody says miles," went on the Riddle Lady. "Captains of ships always say that a boat can go so many knots an hour. A knot is a little more than a mile."

"That's a good one, but a hard one," said Doctor Foster. "I never could have guessed it."

"Here is an easy one then," said the Riddle Lady.

"Roly Poly is as fat as a butter yet you can see his ribs. Indeed he has to have hoops to hold him together."

"He has two crowns to his head, but no eyes or ears. Nothing but a nose."

"Who is Roly Poly?"

"Is it the Fat Man of Bombay?" asked Little Boy Blue.

"Oh, ho!" shouted Nick. "Re has eyes and ears, hasn't he? And you can't see his ribs, can you?"

"That's right—you can't," said Little Boy Blue.

"I know what it is," said Tom Tucker. "It's a barrel. I know because we have one in the cellar to keep molasses in. I like it on my bread and butter."

"That's right, Tommy," said the Riddle Lady. "What would you like for a prize?"

"A knife," said Tommy quickly. "No one can ever seem to find one to cut my bread for me."

"A queer prize, but you shall have it," said the Riddle Lady.

Why Not Sentence Speedeers to Public Humiliation?

The Tangle

LETTER FROM PAULA PERIER TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT, CONTINUED

I am sure our baby is not a child of destiny because you and I, my dear, are very ordinary human creatures and we had nothing to lay at the feet of Fate to make her give any more to our child than thousands of other misguided men and women who have not counted on the future while living wholly in the glamour of the present.

I have come to the conclusion that all this which is to be our boy's because of your wife Leslie—I am not sure that she would like me to call her Leslie, but I do it to myself and to my God when I think Him for her daily.

It is not to you, John Prescott, that I owe my belief in a God and a feeling that somewhere, sometime, someday everything will be all right, but to your wife.

The other night I heard a man—a moving picture actor—talk upon the new kind of religion which has for its basis one's attraction of the All-good to oneself. The theory being that if you are good, that if you acknowledge that all is good within you, you can not help but have all the good you ask for and believe is yours.

To us little Jack was a burden. He was a constant reminder of our sin. I loved him more than anything in my life, but I never thought of that love without more or less unhappiness. I could always see the barrier across his forehead.

With Leslie it has all been different. She loves you much more than I ever did who do not love you the least little bit now. She loved you so much that she could love your child without prejudice. Her love was better than mine ever was and because "she loved much" I almost feel that even my sins have been vicariously forgiven me.

It's a strange thing that I have been writing to you an entirely different letter than I intended. What I meant to say was that little Jack having become a very rich baby, he doesn't need anything that I can do for him. He has love, wealth and position and the best thing that I can give to him now will be to forget that he ever was mine just as I have forgotten you, mon ami. I am going from now on to forget that I have ever lived before I came to this beautiful place.

When I knew you I was still quite French. If you remember I could not speak the language without putting it into French idioms. Today I am entirely American—except when I want to be French.

So you are going over to Pittsburgh to live and little Jack will probably be one of the great captains of industry of the future. You will probably take him into the plant as soon as he comes out of college.

For once I have written you just what was in my heart. I am not going to write you again—unless something comes up which is very important to me.

I dare you to tell Leslie that you have received a letter from me and that I am sending my love to her because I know that God has been good to me in letting me know at least one good woman who is not a bore in letting me know one good woman who is worth all the men in the world.

SURE CURE FOR SPEEDERS

By Albert Apple

You read the Kansas City judge's threat to make wife-beaters stand on prominent downtown corners, under police guard, holding placards advertising their offense.

It's an idea borrowed from the Chinese. They've used it for centuries. More recently they have made convicted profiteers parade their downtown district and home neighborhoods, grasping big banners carrying the story of their crimes and ringing bells to attract attention.

Wouldn't it be a good idea for local judges to administer stiff doses of this brand of medicine to auto speeders who endanger human life?

American autos kill 50 victims a day. Each year there is one auto death for every 760 cars.

Educational campaigns seem unable to cope with the situation; compulsory inspection of traffic victims at morgues; occasional trials on manslaughter charges; these help, but are not sufficient.

Why not banners to be carried by speeders? Ahoy, judges!

New York, Nov. 21.—Two girls in front of the Waldorf buy horse race charts, eagerly turn the pages and read down the columns of winners and also-rams.

Two sportive chorus girls, methinks. Not a bit of it! Their grandmother is just a pace behind them.

"Did you win, dearie, she asks. "No, the nag ran third," one of the girls answers.

Handbooks do an enormous business in New York. A fellow who knows quite a bit about that sort of thing told me the other day that an average of $600,000 a day is bet in New York on horse races, winter and summer, by people who seldom, if ever, see a race run.

Bookmakers have agents in almost every big office building. Some of these agents accept as little as 25 cents a bet. That is true especially in buildings where girls wager on the horses.

Most of the bookmakers are affiliated with the Big Book in Hoboken. Hoboken in the center of all race track gambling in the United States. New York layers of odds who are acquainted over there have certain pass words on the telephone. If they receive more wagers on a horse than they care to chance in cashing they call Hoboken and "lay off" part of the money.

The Big Book in Hoboken will take a bet in any amount. The operators know that in the long run they have everything to gain and nothing to lose. Every horse in every race is a medium of play. And only one horse can win.

Eugene is a cynical headwaiter. "People who come in here don't know what boozes they are," he told me the other evening. "In all likelihood the booze we sell is watered before we get it. We add enough."

FABLES ON HEALTH COMFORTABLE CLOTHES

"They may not be stylish, but they're comfortable," Mr. Jones, of Anytown, frequently would say in connection with his shoes or his collar or his clothing.

The matter of being comfortably dressed plays a great part in the human state of mind. It may be that certain styles are essential if certain social successes are to be enjoyed, but creature comforts are best for the nerves and feeling of well being.

It is doubtful if man was ever intended to make a hatack or clothes-line out of his body, and uncomfortable clothes are uncomfortable because they are bothering some organ or body member. Thus tight vests, corsets and belts may be cramping the abdominal tract, pressing gas around the heart, interfering with circulation or doing a dozen and one other things.

Washington Interested But Has To Look On

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

Washington, Nov. 21.—One day in every four years Washington takes a back seat.

On all other days Washington may strut and put on airs as the nation's capital, but on election day it becomes merely a bystander among cities, an onlooker, watching and wondering what the verdict of the country is to be, but itself without any voice in the outcome.

For in voteless Washington there is no election. No city in the country is so intimately affected by the results of the nation's balloting, but the smallest town or cross-roads hamlet has more say-so in the result. The whole structure of official life, around which the governmental and social life of the city will revolve for four years, is decided for Washington by Walla-Walla, Kootenai and Kalamazoo.

So on election day, when other cities are rampant with the spirit of an enfranchised electorate, empowered to make or mar their well-being as they may choose, Washington plods along in its old rut, waiting, watching, wondering—hoping, perhaps—but without a vote to cast or a word to say.

Apparently the least interested man in Washington, during the period when the country was balloting to decide the next president of the United States, was the slight, severe-faced, sandy-haired man whom the outcome most closely affected.

Whether it was his supreme confidence in the result or whether it was the New England discipline by which his mind is ruled that enabled him to proceed with "business as usual," possibly he himself doesn't know. Probably both had a hand in it.

Anyway, while in other cities voters were rushing to the polls and strife and suspense regarding the outcome were monopolizing men's minds, President Coolidge reported at his office on schedule, ready to tackle a normal day's grist in the executive mill.

General Lord, director of the budget, who was first on the president's election day schedule of callers, emerged from the executive sanctum after an hour's session frankly flabbergasted.

HOUSER TAKES 'U' CAGE TEAM

Former Bismarck Will Coach University Squad

Grand Forks, N. D., Nov. 21.—North Dakota Agricultural college basketball team, winner of the state championship last season, will encounter sterner opposition this winter, according to pre-season predictions of followers of the indoor sport at the University of North Dakota. Edgar "Dutch" Houser, assistant coach in charge of basketball at the university, believes the Nodak prospects are the "best ever."

Coch Houser is pleased with several new candidates who have already reported for practice and with the termination of the football season, after Thanksgiving, several of last year's regulars will report. Coach Archie Olson, Lawrence Pray, Ted Young, Tommy Doe, Jack Stewart, Fred Yoder and Harold Buschick are among the most promising men who have already reported, according to Coach Houser. All these candidates will be eligible at the opening of the season, with the exception of Young and Doe, who transferred to the university from Macalester college, St. Paul, at the beginning of the second semester of last year. They will be able to play after the first of February and their addition to the squad is expected to add a tower of strength.

KEARNS WANTS TO SEE CLASH

Boston, Nov. 21.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion, now presenting daily boxing exhibitions at a Boston theater, said today he was not interested in an offer of a $475,000 purse for a bout between the champion and Harry Wills at White Plains, N. Y., July 2 next.

"I get plenty of these offers," Kearns said. "The answer is always the same: 'not interested.' I listened to one from a syndicate at Shelby, Mont., and had a hard time getting some of the money out of it."

Billy Evans Says

That youth will be served is an old adage in sport.

It failed to hold good in major league baseball last season.

The veteran Walter Johnson, oldest pitcher in the major leagues, edged the hero from the world series, after having failed in his first two starts.

Washington's two aged southpaws as baseball goes, George Mogridge and Ted Zachary, saved the series for the Senators by their rather unexpected superb pitching.

About five years ago the New York Yankees cut loose with Mogridge—figured he was through. They have regretted the deal that sent him to Washington many times.

With Walter Johnson, the veteran Peckinpaugh at short for Washington carried off most of the series honors. While Peckinpaugh didn't win the series, his batting and fielding kept the Senators from being beaten before the seventh game arrived.

In the recent world series the veterans of the game were very much in evidence. True, the youthful Lindstrom played remarkably well at third for the Giants, and the recruit Marberry shone as relief pitcher for Washington.

Incidentally, the kid manager, Stanley Harris, prevailed over the old master, John McGraw. Yet the veterans, Johnson and Peckinpaugh, stood out.

What was true of the world series, holds good for the regular playing season!

Playing his twentieth season in the majors, Ty Cobb had one of the best years of his career.

Despite advanced age and the managerial burdens of a club that was a disappointment, Tris Speaker played his usual brilliant game in the field and at the bat.

In the National League, Dizzy Vance, after being a youngster, was the leading pitcher of that organization. It was a dozen years back that Vance got his first major league trial with the New York Yanks and failed.

Then there was "Rabbit" Maraville, a veteran as ball players go, yet he was one of the best second basemen in the majors last year. Shifted from short to second to make room for Wright, he fitted in perfectly.

Each major league uncovered some star youngster like Cuyler, Combs, and the like, yet the veterans like Cobb, Speaker, Collins, Johnson and the rest held their own. Baseball is not a survival of the youngest.

Back in 1919, Centre College became famous over night in the football world by defeating West Virginia 13 to 6.

Prior to the game West Virginia was being ranked as one of the country's greatest teams because of its decisive defeat of Princeton. Centre College was practically unknown.

On the strength of that win, Centre was booked by Harvard for the following season. The little southern college made such a remarkable showing that it was given a second date.

In that game it again surprised the football world by defeating Harvard, and "Bo" McMillen won undying fame by scoring the touchdown.

After six years of waiting, West Virginia recently got its first chance

SPEAKING OF PUPPIES—

Freshman Gary of Minnesota Owns Biggest Pair of Spaniels in College Football World

Well, here's a new football distinction. Freshman Gary of Minnesota claims to have the biggest pair of legs, which is campus Latin for feet, in the entire football world.

A score of years back Dr. Williams of Minnesota evolved the now famous Minnesota shift.

It was a new and novel departure. The running of plays from a loose line proved decidedly disconcerting to the opposition.

The Minnesota shift gained much fame for Dr. Williams and many victories for Minnesota.

In recent years there have been many elaborations on the shift. Each coach with his own original ideas worked out various original formations to huddle the opposition.

When Georgia Tech was meeting with such success under the coaching of John Heisman, much of the team's deception was based on plays run from shift formations.

The Famous Heisman Shift

The legality of the Heisman shift as used by Georgia Tech was much questioned. Opposing teams contended that the rules of the game, off-side play in particular, were being constantly violated.

Next in line was Knute Rockne with a number of freak shifts that were executed quickly, bewildering the opposition and making big gains easy.

Four or five years ago, in a game between the Army and Notre Dame, Major Daly, then coach at West Point, disputed often with the officials over Notre Dame's shift.

A number of times he came on the field to argue the legality of the play. The game was held up by many arguments.

To revenge the defeat of 1919, it took advantage of the opportunity in a most decisive manner.

It is puzzling to us that no original young genius has yet thought to refer to a football eleven as an "avalanche."

The champion swordsman of Berlin has been jailed and soon is sought to know whether the sword is mightier than the "pen."

Walter Hagan's story, "Bunkering a golf course," is interesting. Now, who'll write the sequel, "Bunking a golf public?"

It is said Gene Tunney is the most retiring boxer in the game. We have noticed he retires rapidly when Mr. Gibbons' name is mentioned.

The Spokane Bible teacher who has gone into the fight game ought to be told he'll need more than a prayer.

The world has four poles, writes a scientist, but the Coveloskes and the Zyzskos are the only ones we're interested in.

Things are shaping themselves in such a way that no fighter can get a match with Dempsey or Leonard without first qualifying as an actor.

We suppose on his showing to date, Red Grange is at least sure of his job with the ice company next summer.

Bucky Harris got his raise out of Clark Griffith. It was almost as sweet as the rise he got out of McGraw.

Experts say the huddle system is all wrong. And if they mean the guys who huddle in front of burlesque show posters, just as we are passing, we agree with them.

Jack Renault boasts that Dempsey can't buffalo him. Why doesn't he go further and admit that Firpo can't Wild Bull him?

HELEN WILLS TO RULE FOR FIVE YEARS—TILDEN

By NEA Service

Philadelphia, Nov. 21.—William Tilden insists he is unable to tell at this time who is the most promising young tennis player in the country.

If he thinks Vincent Richards is destined to be his successor, Tilden does not say so.

Tilden, however, is outspoken in his praise of Helen Wills, the girl champion from California.

"I think she'll develop into one of the greatest women players of all time," says Tilden. "She is not yet at the top of her game. No one will beat her for at least five years."

ITALIAN LAD MAKES BID FOR CROWN

By NEA Service

New Orleans, Nov. 21.—Until Harry Greb came along Johnny Wilson of Boston held the middleweight championship. Wilson's real name is Pannica. He is an Italian. Wilson was the first Italian to hold the middleweight championship.

There is a possibility that another Italian will move into the middleweight throne room in the near future. His name is Young Marullo and he is a native of this city.

Marullo has come forward with leaps and bounds, and is considered one of the most formidable men in the division.

Six months ago he battered Bryn Downey into submission here. At one time Downey was good enough to share with Wilson the middleweight honors of the country. Against Marullo he looked like a second-rater.

In his big time debut Marullo pounded Billy Britton of Kansas to pieces. But for an injured hand the local man surely would have stopped him. And Britton up to that time was stepping high, wide and handsome.

Marullo will face Paul Berlenbach, Madison Square Garden, this winter and if he gets by this rugged puncher he will be in line for the biggest matches the middleweight division has to offer.

Marullo is a heavy hitter himself. The bout between the Italian and Berlenbach should be replete with action. The fight was recently postponed but will be held later in the season.

Shift Plays Are Losing Favor With Coaches

Failure of Officials To Agree on Legality of Some of the Cause

BY BILLY EVANS

The passing of the shift play in football is a possibility.

A score of years back Dr. Williams of Minnesota evolved the now famous Minnesota shift.

It was a new and novel departure. The running of plays from a loose line proved decidedly disconcerting to the opposition.

The Minnesota shift gained much fame for Dr. Williams and many victories for Minnesota.

In recent years there have been many elaborations on the shift. Each coach with his own original ideas worked out various original formations to huddle the opposition.

When Georgia Tech was meeting with such success under the coaching of John Heisman, much of the team's deception was based on plays run from shift formations.

The Famous Heisman Shift

The legality of the Heisman shift as used by Georgia Tech was much questioned. Opposing teams contended that the rules of the game, off-side play in particular, were being constantly violated.

Next in line was Knute Rockne with a number of freak shifts that were executed quickly, bewildering the opposition and making big gains easy.

Four or five years ago, in a game between the Army and Notre Dame, Major Daly, then coach at West Point, disputed often with the officials over Notre Dame's shift.

A number of times he came on the field to argue the legality of the play. The game was held up by many arguments.

To revenge the defeat of 1919, it took advantage of the opportunity in a most decisive manner.

It is puzzling to us that no original young genius has yet thought to refer to a football eleven as an "avalanche."

The champion swordsman of Berlin has been jailed and soon is sought to know whether the sword is mightier than the "pen."

Walter Hagan's story, "Bunkering a golf course," is interesting. Now, who'll write the sequel, "Bunking a golf public?"

It is said Gene Tunney is the most retiring boxer in the game. We have noticed he retires rapidly when Mr. Gibbons' name is mentioned.

The Spokane Bible teacher who has gone into the fight game ought to be told he'll need more than a prayer.

The world has four poles, writes a scientist, but the Coveloskes and the Zyzskos are the only ones we're interested in.

Things are shaping themselves in such a way that no fighter can get a match with Dempsey or Leonard without first qualifying as an actor.

We suppose on his showing to date, Red Grange is at least sure of his job with the ice company next summer.

Bucky Harris got his raise out of Clark Griffith. It was almost as sweet as the rise he got out of McGraw.

Experts say the huddle system is all wrong. And if they mean the guys who huddle in front of burlesque show posters, just as we are passing, we agree with them.

Jack Renault boasts that Dempsey can't buffalo him. Why doesn't he go further and admit that Firpo can't Wild Bull him?

Independent Basketball Being Urged

The amateur independent basketball tournament for the state of North Dakota will be held at Bismarck this year, according to an announcement here. Although there is at present not a local team representing Bismarck in the state independent circles it is thought there will shortly be one and possibly two independent teams from Bismarck in the field. The work of organizing the amateur independent circles of the state will probably meet with the same degree of success in North Dakota as it has in other states. It is an organized move among independent teams. Anyone interested in forming an independent team and entering the race for the championship of North Dakota should call Lee Scroggins. A meeting will be held in the near future and the project explained and a tentative schedule arranged. The following men have been suggested as candidates for Bismarck: Thoraldson, McPhee, Rhad, Sorlien, Scroggins.

FRISCH "TURN HITTER"

Frankie Frisch is a turn hitter, batting right handed against southpaws and vice versa. He prefers batting left handed and is more dangerous that way.

SALESMEN

We have an attractive proposition to offer a high class salesman, with or without clothing experience, to sell RICHMAN'S CLOTHES in BISMARCK, NORTH DAKOTA and adjacent territory.

RICHMAN'S CLOTHES are nationally known. We are the originators of "Factory to Wearer" service on a large scale production. Every article made in the Richman Clothing Factories, Cleveland, is sold direct to the wearer, eliminating the middleman's profit. Our clothes sell at the one and only price of $22.50; guaranteed all wool fabrics, fine tailoring and up-to-date styles; every garment sold to the customer with a money-back guarantee.

RICHMAN'S is THE LINE to build a permanent, profitable "repeat" business which will keep on growing. For further information write: THE RICHMAN BROTHERS CO., Cleveland, Ohio. Established in 1879.

WHEAT GAINS AFTER START

Fluctuations Follow in Trading in Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 21.—(By the A. P.)—Although wheat opened with some trading of a downward tendency today, prices soon rallied to above yesterday's finish. Initial prices, which varied from unchanged figures to 5-8 cents lower, with Dec. 1-15 to 1-18 and May 1-15 to 1-17 1/2, were followed by a little further rise and then by gains all around.

Subsequently reports of rain in northern Argentina where harvesting is going on and dry weather is wanted helped to uphold values despite liberal arrivals of wheat here from Omaha and notwithstanding weakness of corn. Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to one-half cent higher, Dec. 1-15 to 1-17 1/2 and May 1-15 to 1-17 1/2 to 1-18.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago, Nov. 21.—(U. S. Dept. Agr.)—Hog receipts 62,000. Moderately active, steady to 15 cents lower than Thursday's average. Top 9.60.
Cattle receipts 5,000. Killing places generally steady. Medium grade steers predominating, moderately active at $20.00 downward.
Sheep receipts 14,000. Dull, early sales good fat lambs around steady at 13.50.

CHICAGO PRODUCE

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

You should solve this puzzle, for the swastika stands for luck. Not a hard word in it, unless you are so 51 horizontal above the rest of us that you do not understand slang. The unkeyed letter in 18 vertical is the same as the unkeyed letter in 23 vertical.

HORIZONTAL
1. A volume of many.
5. Unnecessary haste.
6. Perceive.
8. Past tense of do.
9. To place in line.
11. By. (From the Latin, but it has taken out second paper.)
12. To leave without aid.
13. Cooking instrument.
14. A title of honor among Anglo-Saxons. (Shakespeare.)
15. Short slumber.
16. The predecessor of the auto.
17. Nautical term meaning toward the stern.
18. Opposite of no.
19. Raised in spirits.
20. Breast of battle.
21. An exclamation of surprise or satisfaction.
22. Fresher.
23. Clever hands.
24. Behold.
25. Japanese coin, worth about a cent.
26. More mean.
27. Not wet.
28. Cry of sorrow.
29. Body of soldiers.
30. Honey-producing insect.
31. Pertaining to punishment.
32. Two thousand pounds.
33. Perspire freely.
34. Jazz.
35. Present tense of 24 horizontal.
36. Distant.
37. Untruth.
38. Biscuit.
39. Not over.

VERTICAL
1. Total.
2. Part of the infinitive of every verb.
3. On a slant.
4. A large fishing net.
5. Atmosphere.

DEVELOPMENT
1. Finish.
2. Identifies.
3. Behind.
4. Countless years.
5. Henthon.
6. An exclamation of surprise.
7. Negative vote.
8. Cham.
9. Layette.
10. Region without wood.
11. Circular staircase.
12. Opposite of liability.
13. Keen edged.
14. Tavern.
15. Point a weapon.
16. One who starts.
17. Slang term for spy.
18. Climb up at a gift.
19. Identified with 10 vertical.
20. Adverb of agreement.
21. A long seat with a back.
22. Barrier.
23. Female sheep.
24. Simple.
25. A wing of a house.

SALESMEN

We have an attractive proposition to offer a high class salesman, with or without clothing experience, to sell RICHMAN'S CLOTHES in BISMARCK, NORTH DAKOTA and adjacent territory.

RICHMAN'S CLOTHES are nationally known. We are the originators of "Factory to Wearer" service on a large scale production. Every garment made in the Richman Clothing Factories, Cleveland, is sold direct to the wearer, eliminating the middleman's profit. Our clothes sell at the one and only price of $22.50; guaranteed all wool fabrics, fine tailoring and up-to-date styles; every garment sold to the customer with a money-back guarantee.

RICHMAN'S IS THE LINE to build a permanent, profitable "repeat" business which will keep on growing. For further information write: THE RICHMAN BROTHERS CO., Cleveland, Ohio. Established in 1879. 11-19-24

WHEAT GAINS AFTER START

Fluctuations Follow in Trading in Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 21.—(By the A. P.)—Although wheat opened with something of a downward tendency today, prices soon rallied to 15 cents above yesterday's finish. Initial figures varied from unchanged to 1/8 to 1/4 lower, with Dec. 1.49 to 1.8 and May 1.56 7/8 to 1.57 3/8, were followed by a little further sag and then by gains all around.

Subsequently reports of rain in northern Argentina where harvesting is going on and dry weather is wanted helped to uphold values despite liberal arrivals of wheat here from Omaha and notwithstanding weakness of corn. Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to one-half cent higher. Dec. $1.49 1/4 to $1.49 3/4 and May $1.57 1/2 to $1.57 3/4.

MANDAN NEWS

Military Funeral Given Veteran

Adam Hartner, aged 25, oldest son of Mrs. Amelia Hartner, passed away Wednesday afternoon at the Deaconess hospital of cancer of the stomach following an illness of almost five years.

He attended the Mandan public and the St. Joseph parochial school and was very popular among the host of friends who regret his passing so early in life. He was born in Odessa, Russia October 6, 1899 and the family moved to Buenos Aires where they made their home for a few years.

He was 7 years old when the family came to Mandan.

Adam Hartner enlisted in the regular army at Minot on January 17, 1918 and was sent to Jefferson Barracks, Mo. for training. He was assigned to duty in the coast artillery.

However, the day before his unit was to leave for France he was taken ill with the flu and was ill in the barracks hospital for some weeks, serving out the balance of his enlistment period there. He was discharged January 7, 1919 at Camp Custer, Mich.

Besides his mother he is survived by two sisters, Magdalena and Pauline and one brother, John. An aunt Mrs. Emptel lives at Glen Ullin.

Funeral services were held at the St. Joseph's Catholic church this morning at 9 o'clock with the American Legion Post assisting in the services and at the grave in the Catholic cemetery.

PREPARE FINE EXHIBIT

County Agent E. C. Newcomer, J. T. Sarvis of the Northern Great Plains station, G. W. Stephens and Secretary E. A. Hetter are busy preparing a display from Morton county, which will be exhibited at the National Hay and Grain Show which opens December 10 at Chicago.

All of the prize winning corn from the Morton County exhibit at the state corn show will be sent with much more high grade produce from past exhibits. Wm. Rapp of south of the city will be one of the largest exhibitors in the shipment. He is sending samples of rye, wheat, oats, beans, amber and red durum wheat, six row barley, ten ears of flint corn and a single ear of flint corn.

COUNTRY OVER-RUN

Simon Kary and Dan O'Neill of the Odessa vicinity were in the city today on business and calling on friends. Mr. O'Neill who was formerly a member of the Morton county board of commissioners, and Mr. Kary declare that the country is over-run at the present time with solicitors for various investments—everything ranging from oil wells to peanut farms. "They apparently have tumbled to the fact that Morton county is reaping the benefits of a fine crop and good prices," they

Federal Farm Facts

More than eight million cattle in the United States are now under government tubercular supervision. State and federal veterinarians test nearly half a million monthly.

America now has an agricultural commissioner at Mexico City. He is Dr. S. O. Fladness of the bureau of animal industry.

Annual loss to tobacco growers from disease is estimated at $25,000,000 by the Department of Agriculture.

Embargo against Spanish grapes will continue indefinitely, following exposure of a fruit-fly infested shipment going to the Dominican Republic through New York.

Loss from grasshoppers has been below that of the last two years, reports the bureau of entomology.

Taros and yautias, potato-like plants, have been adopted for cultivation as annual crops in the south through efforts of the Department of Agriculture.

Fewer sheep and lambs will be fed for market this winter, says the Department of Agriculture, than last year. This is due to reduced feeding operations in the west.

India's rice crop this year is expected to exceed that of last year, according to a report from the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome to the Department of Agriculture.

Number of bearing prune trees in the United States has increased from nine to 12 million in the last 10 years.

Not a single redeeming trait, in its food habits at least, is the veldt passed on the prairie dog by the biological survey of the Department of Agriculture. They are serious food robbers on our grazing lands.

Nine national forests in Arizona cover more than 12,000,000 acres in area.

CHINA WITHDRAW STUDENTS BAN AGAINST STUDENTS COMING TO AMERICA

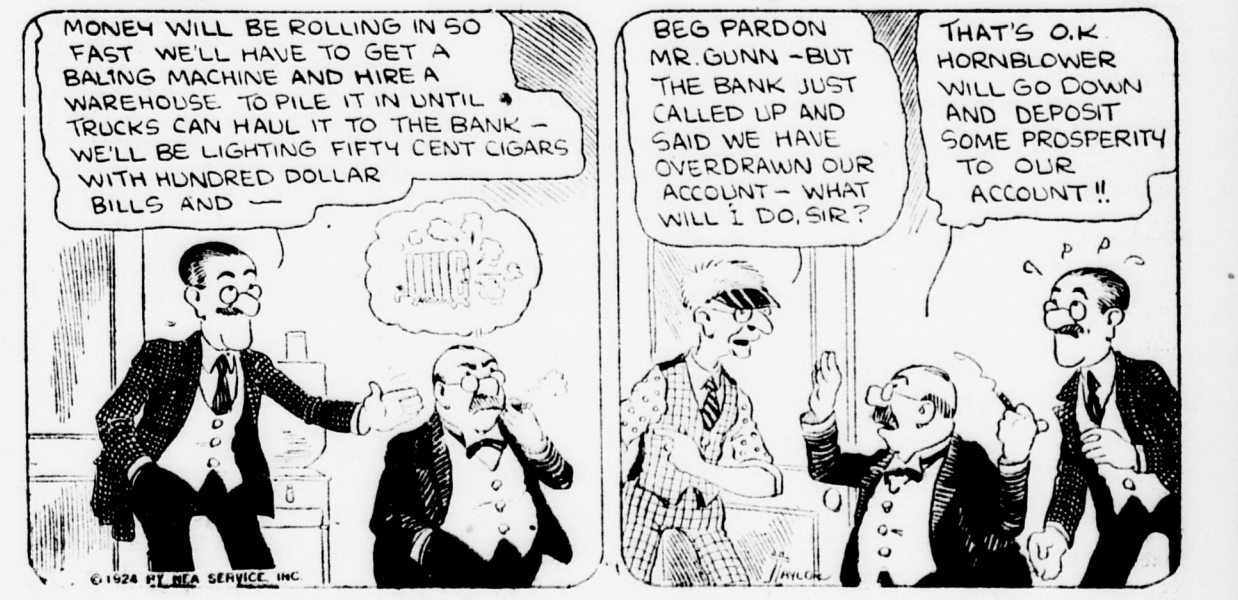

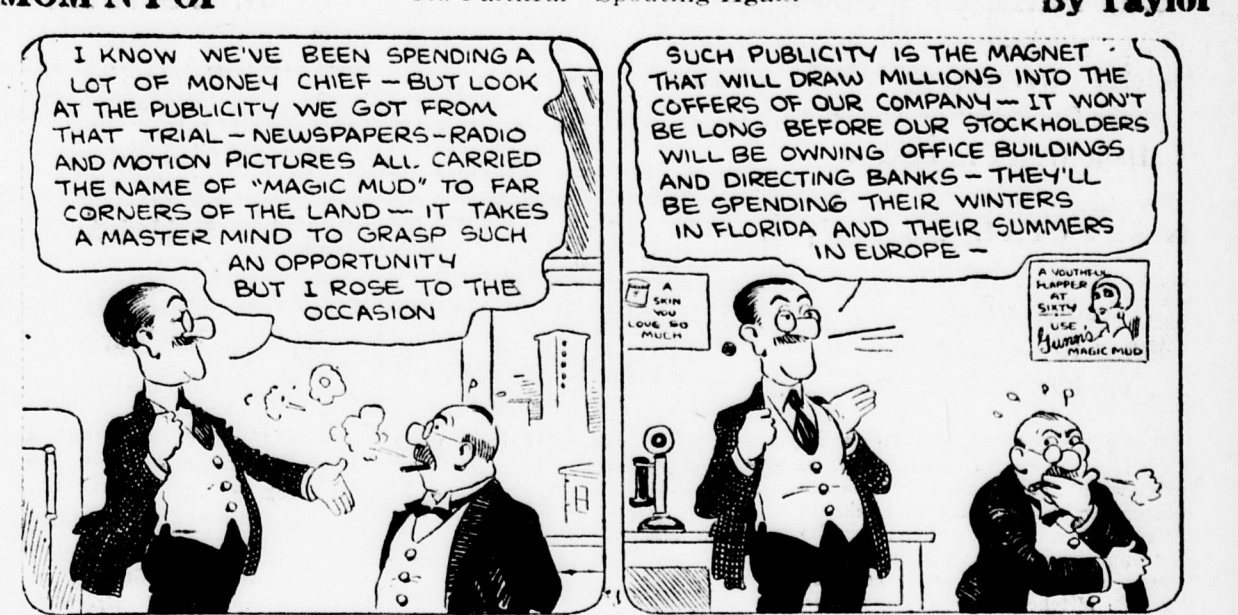

Peking, Nov. 21.—The minister of education has rescinded his recent instruction to the provincial authorities that the sending of students to America be discouraged, in order to avoid "a special intellectual influence" growing up in China as a result.

In his new instruction the minister says: "A letter has been received from the ministry of foreign affairs for the purpose of study in the United States government. Thus, the ministry has instructed its consuls since the obstacle has been removed, in China to issue non-immigrant examinations should be held as passports to students going to America without suspension."

HOUSER TAKES 'U' CAGE TEAM

Former Bismarcker Will Coach University Squad

Clayton Houser, a former college basketball star, will coach the University of North Dakota basketball team this season. Houser, who played for the University of North Dakota, was a member of the national championship team in 1923. He was also a member of the national championship team in 1924. Houser is a former Bismarcker and will coach the University of North Dakota basketball team this season.

KEARNS WANTS TO SEE CLASH

Manager Nov. 21 Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, heavy weight boxing champion, was present at a boxing exhibition at a Boston theater, said today he was not interested in an offer of a $150,000 purse for a bout between the champion and Harry Wills at White Plains, N. Y., July 2 next.

Billy Evans Says

That youth will be eyed is an old adage in sport. It failed to hold good in major league baseball last season. The veteran Walter Johnson, old and yet in his prime, emerged as the ace from the world series, after having taken in his first two starts.

Washington's two aged southpaws, as has been, George Mogridge and Tom Zachary, saved the series for the Senators by their rather unexpected superb pitching.

About five years ago the New York Yankees cut loose with Mogridge, figuring he was through. They regretted the deal that sent him to Washington today.

With Walter down on the veteran Leckbaugh, cut short for Washington, carried off and out of the series.

Walter Leckbaugh didn't win the series. Leckbaugh and Leckbaugh kept the Senators from being beaten before the series was over.

In the recent world series the veterans of the game were very much in evidence. True the young Leckbaugh played remarkably well at third for the Giants, and the recent Leckbaugh showed as better pitcher for Washington.

Incidentally, the kid manager, Stanley Harris, prevailed over the veteran, Leckbaugh, and the veterans, Johnson and Leckbaugh, stood out.

Freshman Gary of Minnesota Owns Biggest Pair of Spaniels in College Football World

Well, here's a new football distinction. Freshman Gary of Minnesota claims to have the biggest pair of dogs, which is campus Latin for football in the entire football world. Gary owns a pair of spaniels.

Shift Plays Are Losing Favor With Coaches

BY BILL EVANS
The passing of the shift play in football is a possibility.

A score of years back Dr. Williams of Minnesota evolved the now famous Minnesota shift.

It was a new and novel departure. The running of plays from a loose line proved decidedly disconcerting to the opposition.

The Minnesota shift gained much fame for Dr. Williams and many victories for Minnesota.

In recent years there have been many elaborations on the shift. Each coach with his own original ideas worked out various original formations to baffle the opposition.

When Georgia Tech was meeting with such success under the coaching of John Heisman, such of the team's deception was based on plays run from shift formations.

The famous Heisman Shift. The legality of the Heisman shift was used by Georgia Tech with much effect. Opposing teams were puzzled. Opposing teams were puzzled.

Next in line was Knute Rockne with a number of shift plays that were executed quickly, baffle the opposition and ending big gains.

Four or five years ago in a game between the Army and Notre Dame, Major Delaney, coach at West Point, showed a shift with the officials over Notre Dame's shift.

A number of years ago in a game between the University of Michigan and the University of California, the University of California was used in a game.

What was true of the world series, holds good of the regular playing season.

Playing in the regular season in the sports, it is true that in the last years of the century.

Despite advanced coaching, the manager of a team that was a disappointment in the sport played in a game in the last years of the century.

In the National League, Dazzy Vance, far from being a youngster, was the leading pitcher of that organization. It was a dozen years back that Vance got his first major league trial with the New York Yankees and failed.

Then there was Rabon Maravilla, a veteran of ball players yet he was one of the best second basemen in the majors last year. Shifted from short to second to make room for Wright, he fitted in perfectly.

Each major league uncovered some star youngster like Cuyler, Coombs, and the like, yet the veterans like Cobb, Speaker, Collins, Johnson and the rest held their own. Reebill is not a survival of the fittest.

Back in 1919, Centre College became famous over night in the football world by defeating West Virginia 13 to 6.

Prior to the game West Virginia was head ranked as one of the country's greatest teams because of its decisive defeat of Princeton. Centre College was practically unknown.

Philadelphia, Nov. 21.—William Tilden insists he is unable to tell at this time who is the most promising young tennis player in the country.

ITALIAN LAD MAKES BID FOR CROWN

By NEA Service
New Orleans, Nov. 21.—Until John Tilden came along Johnny Wilson of Boston held the middleweight championship.

There is a possibility that another Italian will move into the middleweight throne room in the near future. His name is Young Marullo.

Marullo has come forward with leaps and bounds, and is considered one of the most formidable men in the division.

Some months ago he battered Bry-Downey into submission here. At one time Downey was good enough to share with Wilson the middleweight honor of the country.

Against Marullo he looked like a second-rater.

In his big time debut Marullo pounded Billy Britton of Kansas to pieces. But for an injured hand the local man surely would have stopped him. And Britton up to that time was stepping high, wide and handsome.

Marullo will face Paul Berlenbach in Madison Square Garden this winter and if he gets by this rugged puncher he will be in line for the biggest matches the middleweight division has to offer.

Independent Basketball Being Urged

The amateur independent basketball tournament for the state of North Dakota will be held at Bismarck this year, according to announcement here.

At present, not a local team representing Bismarck in the state independent circles is thought there will shortly be one and possibly two independent teams from Bismarck in the field.

The work of organizing the amateur independent teams of the state will probably meet with the same degree of success in North Dakota as it has in other states. It is an organized move among independent teams. Anyone interested in forming an independent team and entering the race for the championship of North Dakota should call Lee Scroggins.

A meeting will be held in the near future and the project explained and a tentative schedule arranged. The following men have been suggested as candidates for Bismarck: Thoraldson, McPherson, Donahue, Nathan, Livdahl, O'Hare, Rhad, Sorlien, Scroggins.

AGRICULTURAL CENSUS WILL BE TAKEN SOON

Federal Government Completes Organization to Get Data Which Is Desired

A SPECIAL CENSUS

Was Authorized by Last Congress to Get Information on Farm Conditions

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 21.—Organization for the first semi-decennial agricultural census has been completed and enumerators will take to the field Dec. 1 to spend two months securing the necessary data, according to an announcement made by John R. Mitchell of Washington, D. C., who has spent the past week in this state. Mr. Mitchell is supervisor for five states, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska.

This special census was authorized by the last Congress and is being taken in every state of the union under the direction of the U. S. department of commerce. North Dakota has been divided into five districts, with a district supervisor in charge of each.

Northwest counties comprise district No. 1 with H. L. Finkle in charge. Headquarters are at Minot. North central counties are district No. 2. L. A. Larson is in charge with headquarters at Devils Lake. District No. 3, in the northeast, and No. 5, in the southeast, are in charge of H. O. Herbrandson of Grand Forks, federal statistician for the U. S. department of agriculture. E. Byron Bobb is in charge of district No. 4, the southwest counties, with headquarters at Bismarck.

These five districts are again subdivided into groups of four to six townships, depending upon the density of the population, and an enumerator has been named for each of the districts.

College Cooperates
The North Dakota Agricultural college has cooperated with the department of commerce in organizing the districts for the state and in recommending district supervisors. County agricultural agents have been called upon to furnish detailed specific information in regard to their counties, particularly in recommending qualified enumerators.

"The agricultural census about to be enumerated relates only to farm acreage and crops grown during the year 1924, and to livestock, etc., on hand as of Jan. 1, 1925," Mr. Mitchell declares. "This ought to dispel any notion that this information is being secured for the benefit of speculators. A speculator is more interested in crop estimates than in past history. As these data cannot be tabulated and published before the middle of next year, the absurdity of such an idea is apparent."

"Every employee of the census bureau from the clerks in the bureau to the force employed in the field is sworn not to divulge any information obtained on schedules, under penalty of $1,000 fine or imprisonment not to exceed two years. No data for a smaller area than the county will be published."

Schedule Mailed
"Some persons have claimed that this census is a governmental scheme to obtain data for the governmental tax agencies. This is absolutely untrue, as the revenue departments of the government will not have access to the individual schedules. No person holding any public office, nor connected with any tax department, whether federal, state, county, city or township, will be employed in this work, nor any person connected with any farm loan board."

JOINT-EASE

Says Druggist

"Joint-Ease is selling like hot cakes in my store because it is a wonderful and speedy remedy for all joint troubles."

"But why not impress on tens of thousands of suffering people some of the things that dozens of my customers tell me almost daily."

"Some say that it knocks out lumbago—Others assert that for chest colds and sore throat it has no equal, while many insist that there is nothing they ever tried that is so efficient for neuralgia, neuritis or even head colds and nasal catarrh."

Answering the above letter, we, the makers of Joint-Ease, know that what this thriving New Jersey druggist says is true, but we still maintain that Joint-Ease is prepared for stiff, lumbago, painful, swollen joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, fingers or spine.

You'll like to use penetrating Joint-Ease, for with just one minute's rubbing, it soaks in through the flesh direct to the ailing bones and ligaments—that's why it succeeds—For when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—And without any waste of time all swelling and congestion disappears. Ask all or any druggist anywhere.

Pyorrhea Yields To Chlorine Gas

To those who have followed the reports of the remarkable curative powers of Chlorine Gas in certain diseases it will be interesting to know that this gas is now available in a simple, inexpensive form known as Jo-Vex.

Jo-Vex combines the Chlorine Gas with other valuable elements especially designed and balanced for the treatment of sore and bleeding gums, loose teeth, trench mouth and all forms of pyorrhea. Thousands of laymen and dentists who have already used this new product are amazed at its wonderful power to heal sore and bleeding gums and stop the dread disease of pyorrhea which ends in broken health and loose teeth unless conquered.

Almost all good druggists are now supplied with Jo-Vex especially Finney Drug Store who have just received large shipments from the manufacturer. If your druggist's supply is exhausted you may send $1.00 to The Jo-Vex Chemical Co., Akron, Ohio, for a full size bottle with complete instructions.

mailed to every farmer in the United States. When the enumerators call, they will check over the schedules with the farmers and take them up. It is important that the farmers be prepared with these schedules when the enumerators call so that the information can be secured as quickly and as definitely as possible. Mr. Mitchell states:

"Tabulated information will start to be available about April or May, 1925, and the complete report on the census will probably be available in printed form in about a year."

FINED $100 FOR FORGERY

Fargo, N. D., Wade Kruze, formerly of Minot, and recently returned to Fargo from the district of Nebraska, on a charge of forging a name to a National Guard pay check was sentenced to pay a $100 fine by Federal Judge Andrew Miller today.

LOCAL CREDIT BUREAU PLANS ON CONTESTS

Will Offer Prizes For Essays on Subject of Credit and Paying Bills Promptly

BUREAU EXPLAINED

Is Affirmative Bureau, Doing Constructive Work, Aserts Its Manager

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of Bismarck Credit Bureau, this week it was decided to offer four prizes in an essay contest on the following topics: By high school students, "What is a Credit Bureau?" 1st prize, $10.00; 2nd prize $5.00; 3rd, 6th, 7th and 8th grade pupils: "Why it pays to pay your bills promptly?" 1st prize $10.00; 2nd prize $5.00.

All essays to be completed on or before Friday, Dec. 12. Winners to be announced and awards made before Christmas.

As a lesson in thrift for the young people such a contest will prove of much value. A better understanding by the pupils in general of the actual workings of a modern credit bureau will also result, the directors believe.

There are two classes of credit bureaus; the affirmative and the negative, according to J. H. Kling, manager who said:

"The Negative Credit Bureau, as the name implies, seeks out and emphasizes the NON-PAYING HABITS ONLY OF CUSTOMERS, and gradually its manager gets the reputation in your city of being a pessimist. He records nothing but bad features in the trade. Keeps track only of delinquents and naturally his bureau carries the air of a police officer."

Such was the old style credit bureau, the negative bureau, which still lives in the memory of a good many of our older citizens.

An Affirmative Bureau
Bismarck Credit Bureau is an affirmative bureau, and as that word, affirmative, implies, makes it a business that everything he has told all who buy on credit from Bismarck merchants. It thus becomes a protection to the honest buyer who may seek credit on his past reputation. Even though he be a stranger to the merchant from which he applies for credit he can say, "Mr. Merchant, call your Credit Bureau," for he knows that there is recorded the opinion of eighty-five Bismarck merchants on the paying habits of all of their customers. He knows that this opinion is based on actual ledger experience. And the honest buyer knows that everything he has told the merchant in asking for credit will be affirmed by the Bureau. And the request for credit is granted.

"A credit bureau can become and in many cities has already become, a great, in fact, an indispensable factor in credit granting. Why? Because the merchants understand it is the widest, quickest, most reliable and cheapest source of obtaining credit information. The buying public knows it has been instituted for a permanent record of their paying habits and possibilities—for use by the credit granting. Why? Because the credit granting understands it is the widest, quickest, most reliable and cheapest source of obtaining credit information. The buying public knows it has been instituted for a permanent record of their paying habits and possibilities—for use by the credit granting."

"Co-operation"—we speak so much of it—what is it? Simply willing service and the application of the golden rule. Do unto others as you would have them do unto you.

Could anything be simpler? It requires co-operation, first between merchants; then between the merchants as a whole and the public as a whole. For eventually the public reaps the benefit: The main reason for the gradual lowering of the cost of merchandise which has actually taken place in Bismarck since the Bismarck Credit Bureau was organized in May, 1923 is because the members of the Bureau have succeeded to a large extent in eliminating the

Eczema Tortured Man Now Well

"I have suffered intense agony from eczema on my leg and other parts of my body for years and received only temporary relief from other preparations. It is only a month since I started to use PETERSON'S OINTMENT, and there is no sign of eczema or itching. You can refer to me."—Geo. C. Talbot, 27 Penfield Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I've got a hundred testimonials," says Peterson of Buffalo, "just as sincere and honest as this one. Years ago, when I first started to put out PETERSON'S OINTMENT, I made up my mind to give a big box for 35 cents, and I am still doing it, as every druggist in the country knows."

"I guarantee PETERSON'S OINTMENT because I know that its mighty healing power is marvelous. I say to every one who buys a box that it is rigidly guaranteed for eczema, salt rheum, old sores, blind, bleeding and itching piles, ulcers, skin diseases, chafing, burns, scalds and sunburn, and if not satisfactory any druggist will return your money."

NO CONTESTS SEEM LIKELY

Nonpartisans Apparently Will Not Contest Elections

There appears at present to be no likelihood of any contests of seats in the North Dakota state senate, it was indicated here today by R. W. Frazier, vice-chairman of the Nonpartisan League State Executive. Mr. Frazier, asked concerning possible action in Grant county, said that he understood the time for instituting a contest had passed, as it had in Wells county, and declared that he knew of no movement for a contest.

Several League officials and successful candidates were expected to have an informal gathering here today. Mr. Frazier denied he had called a conference or that there would be a meeting of the executive committee.

OVERFEEDING PULLETS
It is wrong to overfeed pullets just coming into production. With free access to dry mash, the pullets should get a division of grain feed, morning and evening. Four pounds to 100 birds in the morning and eight pounds in the evening is about right.

He laughed at Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Now read this letter of thanks from Mr. Kane. It speaks for itself. Remember, it is because Kellogg's is ALL-BRAN that it was so effective in his case—just as it has been in thousands of others. Only ALL-BRAN can produce 100 per cent results.

My dear friend:

Imagine a young man weighing 165 pounds in the course of a few months lost 94 pounds. An elderly lady whom I knew since I was a kid paid me what she thought was a last visit. Upon being told of my plight she immediately mentioned your product for such an ailment. Maybe some of us didn't look upon her views very lightly . . . it was to laugh!

My dear friend, I am still laughing not at your product, but because I am able to. I am telling you and the world at large, "Eat Kellogg's Krumbled Bran!" It should be called "Constipation's worst enemy," owe you my heartfelt gratitude. I can talk, and whenever the opportunity presents itself, my mouth is always full of bran—Kellogg's Krumbled. Wishing you countless days of progress, I am

Yours for success,

John M. Kane,
228 Salem St., Waburn, Mass.

Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly to relieve constipation permanently. Two table-spoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will return your money. You will like the delicious nut-like flavor. Sold by all grocers.
